LINDY NURSE'S MOTHER FACES QUIZ

Today

Cheerful Republicans.
Earthquake, Not Joshua.
Wonderful Old Lady.
Food, Six Cents a Day.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DEMOCRATS ARE discussing candidates and possibilities of success, and Republicans, doubtless, listen and rub their hands cheerfully.

When the two most prominent Democratic candidates are League of Nations men, and wobblers on prohibition, there is reason for Republican cheerfulness.

President Hoover will get the big dry vote, no matter how much his Democratic opponent may wobble, for everybody knows that the Democratic party is the wet party, whatever candidates may say.

PROF. GARSTANG, British archeologist, announces positively that the collapse of Jericho's walls was due to a great earthquake, and Joshua's trumpet had nothing to do with it.

That, however, will not disturb the fundamentalists. They will say:

"All very well, but who MADE THE EARTHQUAKE?"

And they will ask also:

"Does not a blast explode after the foreman blows his whistle? May not Joshua's loud blast on his trumpet have been the signal for the earthquake?"

ALWAYS YOU are surprised by "the weaker sex," the Biblical lady driving a nail into the forehead of her people's enemy; the wonderful Roman wife, driving a dagger into her heart, saying "It does not hurt," that her husband might find courage to kill himself; Charlotte Corday, finding Marat in his bath, ending him and the French revolution with the same blow, and all the others.

Now it is an American lady doctor, 84 years old. She has just flown from Hawaii to Newark, N. J., in seven days, by ship and plane.

Dr. Grace Murray, one of New York's first women doctors, is the lady. She flew from San Francisco to Newark in a night and day, and said:

"Tired, nonsense."

WARDEN LAWES has reduced the cost of feeding convicts in Sing Sing to less than 24 cents a day. It used to cost 26 cents. Nothing is charged for labor, cooking and serving. Convicts attend to that.

Sunday breakfast includes corn meal mush and syrup, two boiled eggs, an orange, bread and cocoa. Monday dinner, hamburg roast, mashed potatoes, canned peas, turnips, brown gravy, bread, coffee and rice pudding with raisins. And so on, through the week. Unsatisfactory food must be avoided, for convicts will not stand it.

TULSA, OKLA., reports a feeding cost that will amaze housekeepers even more than the Sing Sing figures. Ten thousand persons have been living in Tulsa, since November, on a charity ration costing SIX CENTS A DAY, PER PERSON, and the Tulsa Medical Society says their average health is better than the average among Tulsa's 150,000 inhabitants.

The unemployed, on charity, cannot be as fussy as the convict who feels that he has a sort of a job.

Tulsa's feeding includes skimmed milk, in powdered form, costing less than one cent a quart, and very nutritious.

REAL ESTATE men, gazing mournfully into empty space, might study the methods of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. His great building plan in New York City might jeopardize the enterprises of others, and that Mr. Rockefeller wishes to avoid.

Before his foundations were dug he had men looking for tenants, not next door, or ten blocks away, but in Europe.

As a result he is building one great building for British tenants, another for French tenants, and they have the backing of their governments, anxious to develop markets here.

The Rockefeller work will be done by Americans, including the mural paintings, very extensive. American artists will provide them.

STALIN DENIES that he is ill, or has sent for a German specialist, at the same time sarcastically expressing his regret at disappointing some that would like to hear of his death.

Concerning two men in Europe, Stalin and Mussolini, the world asks:

"What would happen, if they died?"

Absolute opposites in their formulated theories, and exactly alike in methods of government, each holds up the nation that he rules. What would happen if they should vanish? No yawning grand duke could manage Russia, as it exists today.

What Italian could carry Italy along in Mussolini's path, or find a new way, outside of anarchy?

IN NICE, a divorced man married a young woman, also divorced, and the bridegroom's first wife acted as matron of honor for wife number two.

To many that will seem a step in the right direction, toward civilization better than having wife number one wait outside the church, or mayor's office, with a shiny dagger.

To others it will seem a step in the direction of the monkey house and the corrals of that institution.

BRITISH, TRYING out a new theater tax, finds attendance at moving pictures reduced by one hundred and sixty-five million in the first twelve weeks. That should interest the budget balancers at Washington.

Penalizing certain businesses and industries, in the hypocritical attempt to avoid the appearance of a sales tax, will cause trouble.

HOOVER CALLED 'SHIRKER' ON ECONOMY

Plea for Aid in Reducing U.S. Expenses Branded by Robinson as Evasion of Duty

By JOHN F. CHESTER

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP.)—President Hoover called upon Congress today in a surprise special message to select members from both its branches to draw up with him a "coordinated program of economy legislation."

He did not disclose his ideas for the makeup of such a committee, but declared that it should be authorized to create with representatives appointed by him a detailed program for action by the present Congress.

The Presidential recommendations stirred immediate Senate debate, with Joseph T. Robinson—the Democratic leader there—demanding to know why specific suggestions for cutting expenses were not made. Robinson asked:

"Why does he shirk the responsibility that is upon him?"

UNFAIRNESS CHARGED

The question brought charge of unfairness from Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, who recalled that President Hoover had "repeatedly asked us for authority" to reorganize the government in the interest of economy. Thereupon Robinson said he favored such legislation.

The Democratic chieftain contended his views and those of Vandenberg on the message were "in no material respect different" since both felt the President should have suggested definite reorganization. Robinson said:

"I say and repeat that the making of a budget is an executive function."

He urged governmental salary reductions "as a temporary arrangement at least and as a measure of giving some moral encouragement to those who must pay the additional taxes this Congress is going to impose."

URGES UNITED ACTION

In his message, Mr. Hoover said four confressional afencies now are seeking simultaneously but independently to slice federal expenditures and there is a real need for unity of action. He called for "non-partisan effort."

Mr. Hoover said the "limit of executive authority to bring about economies has been reached," and that only by amendment of existing laws, eliminating less necessary functions, and consolidating governmental bureaus could the end be attained.

Tax on Beer Urged To Raise Bonus Fund

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(INS.)—Payment of the soldiers bonus by a tax levied on 3 per cent beer was proposed today by Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), of Missouri.

This new approach to the question of legalizing beer will be injected into hearings of the Ways and Means Committee on full payment of veterans' adjusted service certificates next Monday.

ANTI-DRYS POLL HOUSE ON BEER

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP.)—A special survey of possible support for a bill to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer will determine the fate of the measure in the House this session.

Differing over whether they should press the bill to a vote, House anti-dry leaders have decided to let a poll guide them. Some are doubtful whether they could obtain the 145 signatures necessary on a petition to take the measure away from the Ways and Means Committee and force a vote on it.

If they get pledges of 145 signatures, the petition likely will be filed.

Representative LaGuardia, of New York, secretary of the Republican wet bloc, referred today to the 132 votes cast for the beer proposition when the tax bill was up.

Contrasting that total against the 187 which earlier in the session favored resubmission of the Eighteenth amendment, he said:

"We fired a good projectile. Why shoot a dud now? Why not wait until we can get another explosive shell?"

Mme. Curie Hurt In Laboratory Fall

PARIS, April 4.—(AP.)—Mme. Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, was in a clinic today suffering from the effects of a slight injury suffered in a fall in her laboratory. It was revealed the 64-year-old scientist cut her elbow when she fell a week ago, and subsequent infection made an operation necessary.

Strike Called at Columbia In Ousting of 'Grid' Critic

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—A strike of Columbia University students, to start Wednesday, was called for at a mass-meeting held on the steps of the university library today in protest against the expulsion of Reed Harris, editor of the Spectator, student publication.

More than 1,000 students of Columbia College attended the meeting, and scores of them remained after the meeting to enlist for picket duty on Wednesday when, according to the plans, all the university buildings will be picketed.

The protest meeting was directed by Rob F. Hall, president of the Social Problems Club, and John L. Donovan, a member of the club. A succession of students mounted the pedestal of the Alma Mater Statue to address the crowd, a few of them upholding the action of Dean Herbert E. Hawkes in expelling Harris, although the majority denounced the expulsion of the editor.

Hall charged that the expulsion of Harris resulted as much from his editorial sponsorship of the student delegation which recently attempted to visit the Kentucky mine area, as from his attacks on commercialized football.

Two petitions demanding the reinstatement of the expelled editor were approved and students were assigned to circulate them. One is to be circulated among the student body and the other among faculty members.

Several of the speakers attacked Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university.

MRS. FOSDICK KILLS CHILDREN AND HERSELF

Wife of Noted Lawyer and Rockefeller Charity Aid Takes 3 Lives With Gun

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Raymond B. Fosdick, wife of the noted lawyer and publicist, who has handled many of the Rockefeller charities and headed social service activities at Army camps during the war, shot and killed her two small children and herself at her home here today.

Mrs. Fosdick, who had been under treatment for a nervous disorder for several years, entered the bedroom of her daughter, Susanne, 15, and fired a bullet into the girl's temple, killing her instantly. She then went to the bedroom where her 9-year-old son, Blaine, was sleeping, killed him with a shot in the temple and then turned the weapon on herself, firing a bullet into her brain.

CHILDREN ON VACATION

Both children were home on vacation from school. The girl attended a private school in Philadelphia, and the boy was a pupil in a private school at Lake Placid, N. Y.

Dr. Victor Seidler, physician, who had been attending Mrs. Fosdick for a nervous disorder, said Fosdick was asleep in the house at the time of the tragedy.

Mrs. Fosdick left a letter, the envelope of which was inscribed, "The will of Mrs. Raymond B. Fosdick." It contents were not made known.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson D. Fosdick, widely known New York minister, and brother of Fosdick, arrived at the home this afternoon.

LEAGUE SECRETARY

Fosdick is former under secretary general of the League of Nations. He is a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation and of Princeton University.

He was assistant corporation counsel of New York from 1908 to 1910 and comptroller of the finance committee of the Democratic National Committee in 1912. In 1916, he was a special representative of the Secretary of War on the Mexican border and again represented the War Department in France in 1918 and 1919. During the latter year he was also civilian aide to Gen. Pershing.

FUGASSI BACKS COUNTY TRUCK HIRE POLICY

'Relieved' County Official Defends System in Quiz By Counsel for Bowser

BULLETIN.

Watson G. Bowser, Kittanning contractor, today refused to testify in the Controller's inquiry into alleged racketeering of county truck hire contracts. Oliver K. Eaton, one of Bowser's attorneys, said the refusal was made on advise of counsel, contending that the Controller had no right to subpena Bowser and that the latter's books and records were not under the Controller's jurisdiction.

Bowser was ordered committed to jail by the controller. The formal commitment did not actually place him behind the bars, but throws the entire controversy into the courts. His attorneys were given until 10 a. m., Wednesday, to file a bill of equity outlining their fight against the controller's jurisdiction.

John A. Fugassi, "relieved" of duties as county road maintenance superintendent by Commissioner C. M. Barr, acting independent of the other Commissioners, defended the truck hire policy employed in construction of the county airport when he took the stand today in Controller Robert G. Wood-side's inquiry into an alleged "racket" in county trucking contracts.

His testimony was guided largely by questions from Charles Harrington, who, with Oliver K. Eaton, is counsel for Watson G. Bowser, of Kittanning, the contractor who held the airport contract and who, during 1931, according to a Main & Co. audit, received $200,000 from the county.

PLANS CHANGED

Fugassi said the late Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong changed plans for the airport so that they called for a heavier coating of slag on the runway and instructed him to hire Bowser to do the hauling at 60 cents a ton. He added:

"I never saw an organization like Bowser's. It was excellent. He did the work in the only practicable way and it is a job we are proud of."

He testified that state contract hauling rates averaged 25 or 30 cents a "ton mile."

Referring to reports that records in Fugassi's office which might have a bearing on the present inquiry had been destroyed, Attorney Eaton said to Fugassi:

"In fairness to you on account of newspaper reports I am going to ask you if any records of your department which this audit might need have been mislaid or destroyed?"

DENIES RECORD LOSS

Fugassi answered:

"Commissioner Barr made a statement to the papers. Personally I don't care, but it was not fair. If I wanted to I could have destroyed records months ago, but it has never been in my mind to do anything like that.

"Any auditors can look at any records of my office.

"Mr. Conick (the Main & Company auditor) never made any complaint; neither did Main and Company, or anyone else."

During the cross-examination, Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank said:

"I understand certain field time book records are missing from your books."

Fugassi said that he did not know, as L. F. Bechtel county maintenance engineer, had charge of these documents.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 4.—Held back by lines of police, hundreds of people, the most of whom were natives, gathered in the streets before the "Hall of the Chiefs" today awaiting the opening of the Massie "honor slaying trial."

Light showers failed to dampen the desire of the crowds to catch a glimpse of the four defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two naval enlisted men, charged with killing a half-cast native, Joseph Hahahawai, to avenge the honor of Mrs. Massie.

POLICE LINES FORMED

N. J. TROOPER ON WAY TO GLASGOW

'Important Development Near,' Norfolk Clergyman Says; Mystery Hides Flight

The Lindbergh kidnaping was surging toward a climax today with these developments:

1—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State Police, conferred with Scotland Yard officials in London and prepared to leave for Glasgow tonight to question the mother of Betty Gow, the baby's nurse.

2—Two fishermen declared they identified as Col. Lindbergh himself the pilot of the amphibian plane which took to Cuttyhunk, Mass., yesterday four men who said they were searching for a small yacht.

3—Col. Lindbergh, returning to his Hopewell, N. J., home after a mysterious 24-hour absence, kept the purpose of his mission a closely-guarded secret.

4—In Norfolk, Va., Dean Dobson-Peacock told newspapermen he expected "developments of the greatest importance" soon. Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage returned unexpectedly from a mysterious mission with John Hughes Curtis, the third Lindbergh intermediary, whose whereabouts was still unknown.

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 4.—(AP.)—It was officially reported here today that Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey state police, will arrive tonight from London. It was understood he was coming to interview a Mrs. Taylor, the mother of the Lindbergh nurse, Betty Gow.

There was a feeling among police authorities here that "something of considerable importance" may be the outgrowth of Maj. Schoeffel's visit.

The city is excited about it, and the question is being asked on the street "Is the Lindbergh baby in Glasgow?" The police have even gone so far as to institute a search for the child.

Mrs. Taylor maintains reticence, however. When informed that the New Jersey officer would arrive tonight she merely smiled and said:

"I have nothing to say at the moment."

It was stated officially, however, that Maj. Schoeffel had bound Mrs. Taylor to secrecy, indicating that his visit had been planned in advance.

Lindy Makes Mystery Trip in Hunt for Baby

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 4.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh became today an active figure in the hunt for his stolen baby.

His automobile, with the Colonel at the wheel, slid into the garage of his Sourland Hills estate shortly after midnight, ending a mysterious 24-hour trip which he and the state police declined to discuss.

On a back road near the estate, the Lindbergh car had met a machine carrying newspapermen, and stopped. Col. Lindbergh asked:

"Are you police officers?"

The reporters identified themselves and asked him where he had been. The Colonel said:

"Thank you."

He then drove on to his home. The Associated Press had

Milton Jaffe 'Kidnaping' Branded April Fool Tale

The story around town that Milton Jaffe, night club manager and horse race devotee, had been kidnaped at the St. John's race course, near Jacksonville, Fla., and released on payment of $30,000 ransom, was described as a belated April fool joke by his brother, George Jaffe, manager of the Academy Theater, today.

Said George:

"The reported kidnaping of my brother is the bunk. Somebody got his dates mixed and is trying to play an April fool joke four days late."

Milton Jaffe returned to Pittsburgh from Hot Springs, Ark., with Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren two weeks ago, the latter said. Murren said he had seen and conversed with Jaffe for several days before their return.

Jaffe and his companions were said to have returned broke after having been "taken for a ride" by the "horses" in the South. Jaffe was said to have wired friends here for $200 to enable him to get back to Pittsburgh.

Milton Jaffe was one time manager of the Show Boat.

Mrs. A. Jaffe, mother of the Jaffes, at her home, 431 Atwood street, said:

"There's nothing to it. Someone must be April fooling."

GIBBONS REACHES U. S.; SEES FAR EAST TROUBLE SMOULDER

FLOYD THRILLED AT SIGHT OF GOLDEN GATE

Headline Hunter Tells How He and Will Rogers Tried To Master Chopsticks

By MILTON HOLLAND
International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Back from [illegible] in China, Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent for International News Service, arrived in San Francisco today.

He was given a royal welcome by a host of friends, many of whom [illegible] to meet him while [illegible] by President Coolidge [illegible] off Quarantine.

Gibbons [illegible]:

"The greatest sight I've seen in months was the view of the Golden Gate at dawn this morning. It mean I was home again."

He continued:

"It was a hectic time over there in Manchuria and Shanghai packed full of thrills every minute. Eating corned beef willie that was frozen so hard you couldn't taste it which might have been a break at that, chopping ice out of canteens to get your drinking water."

CRISIS NOT PASSED

Gibbons [illegible] believes the situation is well under control, he said.

"It may stay quiet for a while, but it'll flare up again sooner or later."

Interrupting himself, he said:

"Say, where's my friend Will Rogers?"

"Well, let me tell you this one on Will. On the way over, Will and I decided to practice eating with chopsticks so we'd be up to par when we got to Japan.

"Will got mighty good. He could pick up a grain of rice with his sticks. But listen to this one about how he got stumped.

"About the first day we were in Tokio we got invited to a banquet. Here would be a chance, we thought, to show our prowess with the chopsticks.

REAL TEST

"Well, the first thing they put in front of us was something that looked like an empty orange. It had a cute little top to it that was supposed to be lifted off.

"Will looked at me and I looked at Will. We stole a few glances about us to see what the others were doing.

"It turned out that the orange was filled with raw oysters. And they simply refused to be handled with chopsticks. At least Will and I couldn't coax them on.

"The others at the table didn't seem to be having any trouble. Right then and there Will and I decided we were rank amateurs when it came to chopsticks.

"And if you don't believe it's tough, just try to lift up a raw oyster sometime with a pair of sticks. It's great fun."

Cause of the blaze is unknown, but firemen say they believe it was started by defective wiring or a smouldering cigaret butt.

BLOCK CHINESE IN MANCHURIA

TOKIO, April 4.—(AP.)—Henry Pu-Yi's new regime in Manchuria intends to order officials of the Chinese government to keep out, the Japanese Consul at Changchun reported today to the Foreign Office here.

First the Manchukuo government of the former boy emperor plans to protest the entry of Dr. Wellington Koo, former Chinese foreign minister, into the country with the League of Nations investigating commission when it proceeds there, the consul reported by the consul, is indignant also to be drafting a note to Nanking declaring all Chinese officials unwelcome.

Dr. Koo is acting as Chinese assessor with the league commission. The cause of the ban, as reported by the consul is indignation over Nanking's denunciation of the Pu-Yi regime and its refusal to consider Manchuria as anything other than part of China.

Meanwhile, Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, prepared to ask the cabinet tomorrow to authorize sending two army brigades to Manchuria to replace Korean units sent there during the campaign late last year.

WIDEN PARLEY ON DEBTS

LONDON, April 4.—(AP.)—It was definitely settled today that the four-power conference which meets here Wednesday will discuss not only means of extending financial aid to the nations on the Danube, but the whole of Europe's difficulties, including reparations, disarmament and war debts.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made the announcement last night after a preliminary conversation with Premier Andre Tardieu of France, who came here yesterday and remained for further discussions today.

PARIS, April 4.—(Universal.)—The strengthening of American defenses against further war debt revision was seen here today as the underlying reason for Secretary of State Stimson's long-delayed departure from Washington next week for the disarmament conference at Geneva.

Continental officialdom is beginning to realize that the present American Congress is dangerously set against any further plans by President Hoover for an international debt settlement.

SENATE BEGINS FIGHT TO CUT TAX 'PEAKS'

Auto Makers Lead Battle For Wider Distribution Of Special House Levies

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A drive to broaden the base of the $1,000,000,000 tax bill and thus avoid the placing of undue burdens upon a few industries was opened in the Senate today as the Finance Committee prepared to consider the House measure.

Spokesmen for the automobile industry, aroused by the special levies of the House bill, formed the spearhead of the campaign with the aid of Senators from sections hard hit by the new measure.

The budget-balancing measure as passed by the House levies nearly $500,000,000 in taxes upon 26 industries or businesses, many of which will send representatives before the Finance Committee to complain of discrimination.

SALES TAX REVISION

Even though the manufacturers excise as first proposed by the House is not revived in the Senate, the Finance Committee will consider lowering of the sales tax rates upon selected industries and the inclusion of many more to obtain the needed revenue.

The statement of Secretary of the Treasury Mills that the $1,032,000,000 House bill does not balance the budget, unless Congress effects economies totaling $200,000,000, also may bring about revision of the measure in the Senate.

House leaders maintain that Congress and the administration can bring about the needed economy, while Mills and Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, both said the House estimates are too high.

ECONOMY ORDERED

While the Senate has returned appropriation bills back to committee with instructions to slash them 10 per cent, which would make possible the $200,000,000 savings, Jones said it is doubtful whether expenses can be cut over $100,000,000.

Meanwhile, a program calling for enactment of the tariff, tax, appropriation bills, Philippine independence and the Democratic "good roads" bill, with an adjournment of Congress by June 10 was openly avowed by leaders of both House and Senate.

Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, and Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic chieftain of the House, agreed on the June 10 date for adjournment. Both insisted the tax, tariff and appropriation bills should be enacted—with all other bills "taking their chances."

Penn to End Ban On Smoking by Athletes

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—(INS.)—"The diet of an athlete should not differ from that of a ditch digger—both burn up energy; both need plenty of fuel!"

Working on this theory, Dr. H. Dewitt Lees, new director of health service at the University of Pennsylvania, today indicated that the old-fashioned training table may be supplanted.

Sweets, fried foods and even smoking by students engaged in athletics were approved. In regard to smoking, Dr. Lees said:

"Our experience does not indicate that athletes who were in the habit of smoking and stopped suddenly to participate in sports made their best showing. It is better to allow them to continue, or to quit gradually."

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP.)—Senate hearings on the Davis-Kelly bill for stabilization of the bituminous coal industry are to be resumed April 18, instead of tomorrow, as had been planned.

Chairman Hatfield (Rep.), of West Virginia, of the mining subcommittee conducting the hearings, said the change was made to accommodate the members.

Newspaper Writer Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP.)—Harold L. Gordon, 28, Associated Press correspondent in Washington for Pennsylvania newspapers, died today of pneumonia.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Dorothy McLaughlin Gordon, formerly of Greencastle, Pa.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gordon, of Pittsburgh, and two sisters.

RIVER PROGRAM OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(AP.)—Strong administration opposition marked the opening of hearings today before a Senate committee on the Shipstead bill to issue 500,000,000 of bonds for river and harbor improvements.

As Middle Western spokesmen appeared to urge enactment of the measure, Secretaries Mills and Hurley vigorously opposed the bill in letters to the committee.

The Treasury head said "it is essential if we are to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States government that the increase in our public debt be brought to a halt."

Hurley said that while he was in "hearty sympathy" with the motives of the bill, it would be better to continue such improvements out of current revenues at a rate the country could afford.

HONOR KILLERS' TRIAL TO OPEN

heads the defense, and John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, were to have their first clash over the selection of the jury.

Twenty-six men were ordered to be present for jury duty. Included in that number were nine Chinese, four Hawaiians and one Japanese. "It is more than likely that a number of panels will be drawn and scores of veniremen questioned before both state and defense are satisfied.

The case will come before Territorial Judge Charles S. Davis, into whose hands it was placed by Judge Albert M. Cristy. Cristy was accused by the defense of being biased, and of having forced the grand jury to return indictments despite a reported sentiment against such action. Judge Cristy denied the allegations, but withdrew from the case to avoid complications.

CONJECTURE OVER FATE

Conjecture as to the fate of the four defendants is the all absorbing topic in this picturesque community.

If Kahahawai was the ringleader of the native rowdies who attacked young Mrs. Massie, and beat her into a condition of helplessness, then, it is argued in various quarters, his extinction at the hands of her mother and husband might be termed justifiable homicide.

If, on the other hand, the trial jury debates the almost inescapable question of Kahahawai's possible innocence of any part in the crime, then a verdict of guilty against one or more of the defendants becomes a distinct possibility.

The lives of the defendants will not be at stake in the trial, as the indictment charges them with the lesser crime of second degree murder.

War Vet Ends Life In Niagara Plunge

NIAGARA FALLS, April 4.—(INS.)—The father and brother of Lorne S. Impey, 38, World War veteran and chiropractor, were convinced today that he was the man who was seen wading into Niagara River above Prospect Point Saturday, just before he was swept over the falls.

Arthur Impey, father, and Lewis Impey, brother, came here after receiving a telegram from Lorne. Ill health was advanced by his father as the reason for the suicide.

LINDY SLEUTH TO SEE MOTHER OF NURSE

learned earlier that he left the estate by motor Saturday night. Where he spent the 24-hour period, however, remained a secret.

The morning bulletin of the state police gave no information of importance, but promised to include in the next bulletin any statement Col. Lindbergh might see fit to make in connection with his trip away from the estate.

Rumors flew early today that the baby's nurse, Betty Gow, left the estate last night in a state police car. This gave rise to reports that she had been taken elsewhere for further questioning. There was no confirmation, however, of any of these reports. The police have said repeatedly they are satisfied Miss Gow has told them all she knows.

Scotland Yard Helps Sleuth in Lindy Hunt

LONDON, April 4.—(AP.)—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State Police, here in connection with the investigation of the kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., visited Scotland Yard today and conferred with high police officials.

Maj. Schoeffel has been dubbed "mystery man" by a host of newspapermen who have vainly sought some trace of him since he landed in England.

He entered Scotland Yard unrecognized and when he emerged a half hour later he drove away in a taxicab still unidentified by a large crowd which had gathered outside.

CONFERS WITH TRENCHARD

The New Jersey trooper saw Lord Trenchard, the police commissioner, and the heads of the Criminal Investigation Department while at the Yard.

Pilot Recognized as Lindy In Plane Hunt for Yacht

CUTTYHUNK, Mass., April 4.—(AP.)—Two Cuttyhunk fishermen today positively identified the pilot of a large amphibian plane which landed her yesterday in search of a yacht as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. One of the men, Charles Tilton, said he had seen many pictures of Lindbergh, and recognized him without question.

Cuttyhunk residents said the plane contained four men, three of whom appeared to be middle-aged, and that they were looking for a 28-foot yacht named Sallie. The yacht was described as having two men and two women aboard. The men did not make known their identity, but the two fishermen said they were positive the pilot was Lindbergh.

After the men departed they flew northward and were seen by Capt. E. H. Paul, of the Coast Guard station, to fly low near Penikese Island, near which a yacht was anchored. It appeared to the Coast Guardsmen as though the men in the plane were endeavoring either to identify the yacht or to drop a message.

Go-Between Predicts Quick Action in Hunt

NORFOLK, Va., April 4.—(INS.)—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, one of the three Norfolk men engaged in efforts to recover the kidnaped Lindbergh baby returned here today after a mysterious absence of 24 hours.

The admiral would answer no questions as to his movements since yesterday, when he disappeared, nor would he comment upon the continued absence of the chief of the three negotiators, John Hughes Curtis, shipbuilder.

SURPRISE RETURN

Return of the retired naval officer surprisetd not only a host of newspapermen, but also the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church, and the third of the negotiators.

A short time before "developments of the greatest importance" were predicted by Dr. Dobson-Peacock. He came downstairs in pajamas and a dressing robe to grant International News Service an exclusive interview, and said the absence of his two associates was a "splendid sign." He said:

"I expect developments shortly. The absence of John Curtis and Admiral Burrage is to me an encouraging and highly optimistic sign."

VAGUE ON "DEVELOPMENT"

He indicated that Curtis and Burrage were together at that time and revealed that he expected neither of them back before late today at the earliest, and probably not before tomorrow. He added:

"If I wanted to play a game of golf, I'd go ahead and do it—but I'd plan to get back here by 5 p. m. today. I hardly think Mr. Curtis and Admiral Burrage will turn up before tomorrow, but then, this is a nice day for flying."

Billie Burke Greets 'Flo' At Radio Show Opening

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—(Universal.)—Over miles of telephone wire and through the air went hurtling greetings between Billie Burke, beauty and stage star, in Los Angeles, and her husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, famous showman, in New York.

The occasion was the initial performance on the air last night of Ziegfeld's radio show, recalling stars and tunes from past Ziegfeld Follies and introducing one number from his current show, as sung by the Mexican star, Lupe Velez.

Miss Burke, and their daughter, Patricia, joined in the program, originating in New York, by speaking from this city. Miss Burke said:

"It's great to hear your voice, Flo, away out here—3,000 miles away. Patricia and I will be back soon."

Will Rogers, former Follies star, introduced by Miss Burke, said he owed a "lot to Ziegfeld," declaring:

"If it hadn't been for him I'd be planting corn and following a plow on a farm 10 miles north of Claremore, Okla., and cussing the Republican party—a local pastime in those parts. That's a pastime that has since become universal."

Patterson Chauffeur Hurt, Spurns Aid to Save Dogs

CAMDEN, N. J., April 4.—(Universal.)—"I've got to bring these dogs back safe."

With this statement and after he had refused medical treatment until he was certain "these dogs" were safe, Henry Gerard Laforce, chauffeur for Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington (D. C.) Herald, early today prepared to continue his automobile trip from New York to Washington with two cocker spaniels belonging to his employer.

With blood streaming from cuts on his head and face, Laforce was found by police last night dashing around a field in pursuit of the frightened spaniels. The animals had fled after the car he was driving crashed into a pole on the outskirts of this city.

When police tried to get him to a hospital, Laforce said:

"I can't—I got to catch these dogs and get them to a veterinarian."

The chauffeur finally recaptured the spaniels, and not until they had been treated for slight cuts did he go to Cooper Hospital here for treatment. He was not seriously injured.

REVELATIONS OF CAPONE TERRORISM SPUR ANTI-DRYS

REPEAL URGED TO END GANG REIGN

Drys Blame Failure of States to Enforce Law; Story Amazes Senators

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The murderous rule of Al Capone over the Midwest's underworld, as revealed to the Senate Judiciary Committee, today gave the anti-drys of Congress fresh ammunition for their drive against the Eighteenth Amendment.

While all factions expressed horror at the picture of crime conditions revealed by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, of Chicago, the liberals cited it in demanding immediate repeal of prohibition.

Johnson testified before a Senate judiciary subcommittee which is considering President Hoover's nomination of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the Circuit Court.

"There is no doubt that if we eliminated prohibition, gangs like that of Al Capone could not achieve the power they now hold over whole communities."

DRYS GRATIFIED

The drys indicated they thought Johnson's startling disclosures showed the states were not helping to enforce the Eighteenth amendment. They were gratified by the government's successful efforts in jailing Capone and many of his lieutenants. Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, a staunch dry, said:

"It is a terrible story. It is a sad commentary that such a thing could happen in this modern era. I see nothing Congress can do about it, except to encourage the government to prosecute these gangs on whatever charges they can prove in court."

STATES FAIL

"One thing stands out in this story of Johnson. It is the failure of the state to punish Capone for any of his crimes against state laws. That gangster should have been brought to book a dozen times for his violations of state laws. But the state never caught him. It took the federal government to put him in jail."

Johnson next recited how the federal government stepped in to smash Capone and his gang. First, a special squad of detectives raided his breweries, gambling joints and disorderly houses, for the purpose of destroying a part of Capone's enormous revenue from crime. Steadily, the government caught, convicted and jailed one after another of the czar's lieutenants.

COULDN'T GET AL

But all this activity failed to get Capone. Johnson said the czar never acted in person.

In one prohibition conspiracy case, Johnson said, six of the 21 defendants were murdered before they came to trial—apparently for fear they would turn state's evidence. Eight important associates of the accused were slain, too. Juries were intimidated.

Capone was caught finally because he talked too much. It happened during a raid on a Cicero (Ill.) speakeasy. Capone dashed up during the raid and loudly proclaimed:

"I'm giving the party; I own this joint."

Those words linked him to the profits of the place, as revealed in a mysterious set of books captured months previously. The books merely corroborated Capone's own "confession."

Increase in Crime Shown in N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—Police Commissioner Mulrooney's annual outline of outlawry, telling of multiplying murder and increasing crime—and of more effective prosecution and greater punishment—was presented today to Mayor Walker.

Murder and manslaughter increased 16.1 per cent in New York City during 1931, the commissioner reported. Holdups were 23 per cent greater in number than 1930. These latter, in the commissioner's opinion, were due in large measure to unemployment.

The year had 272 homicidal shootings—98 more than the year before. The total number of cases classified as murder and manslaughter was 489. The commissioner noted that 12,030 persons appeared in the police "lineup" during the year, and he made this comment:

"A most disturbing fact is the immaturity of these criminals. The lineup presents a parade of youths ranging in age from 17 to 21, versatile in crime."

Temperanceville, O., Yields Rum in Raid

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 4.—(AP.)—There's nothing in some names, it appears. Temperanceville, a hamlet of 100 persons in Belmont County, yielded 100 gallons of beer, wine and whisky when prohibition agents swooped down on it.

SMEDLEY D. BUTLER

Candidate Explains In Address to Bible Class

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—(AP.)—Ma). Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who is campaigning for a seat in the United States Senate, told a Bible class at the Maple Presbyterian Church of Broomhall yesterday that he always prays before he starts to make a speech. He said:

"I do swear, but here's a queer quirk—before I get up to speak I make a prayer. I ask the Lord to please help me say the right thing, and it's been a big help. If the Lord doesn't want me to do this I won't succeed."

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 4.—(AP.)—His voice still husky, but otherwise recovered from last week's attack of laryngitis, Gen Smedley D. Butler left here last night for Mifflintown, where he will open the second week of his speaking campaign for a seat in the United States Senate.

Ralph E. Flinn and Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, candidates for Auditor General and Judge of the Superior Court, were to join Gen Butler at Mifflintown. Flinn and Judge Stadtfeld were to address a meeting in New Bloomfield.

FLOUR SHIPPED 2,000 NEEDY AT KENSINGTON

First Consignment of U. S. Wheat Milled by Red Cross Delivered in This Section

One hundred and fifty thousand pounds of flour, representing half of an order filled by government surplus wheat and distributed free by the American Red Cross, was received today by the New Kensington Red Cross Chapter for distribution among 2,000 needy families of the vicinity.

New Kensington is reported to be the first community in this section to receive its quota of flour, under a recent act of Congress providing for the free disposal of the government's acquired wheat surplus. Pittsburgh has not yet received its shipment, according to the Allegheny County Emergency Association, designated by the Pittsburgh Red Cross Chapter to distribute the flour.

The flour was received in two freight cars at the Pennsylvania Railroad yards today by Rabbi Henry R. Goldberger, of Beth Jacob Synagogue, chairman of the New Kensington Red Cross Chapter. Cost of shipment, $275, was paid by the National Red Cross. Dr. Joseph M. Steim, general chairman of the Community Welfare Fund, and Frank R. Alter, chairman of the budget committee of the Community Welfare Council, will distribute the flour from their storehouse within the next few days. Borough trucks with volunteer unemployed men will do the work.

FIND NEW CLUES IN MASSACRE

LAS CRUCES, N. M., April 4.—(INS.)—Border peace officers today reported the discovery of several clues which might lead to the solving of the mystery surrounding the cold-blooded killing of a mother and six children on a ranch near Chumberino, N. M. The three surviving members of the family returned to the ranch after a thorough questioning at the hands of officials here.

Benson Newell, District Attorney for Dona Ana County, and Sheriff Dick Traviz questioned Maequadio Espinosa, the 60-year-old father; Mrs. Juanita Espinosa, 82-year-old blind grandmother of the slain children, and Josefina Marres Chabiri, Espinosa's sister-in-law, Sunday. They were released following the questioning.

The theory that the brutal slaughter was the work of bandits from south of the Mexican border has been practically abandoned and authorities turned their attention to a closer inspection of the family affairs of the Espinosas in hopes that some clue might be uncovered which would point to the slayers.

Girl Who Started For Movies Vanishes

An 18-year-old domestic who disappeared from the home of her Mt. Lebanon employer en route to a movie, was the object of a police search today. Margaret Oshnok, of Atlasburg, left the home of F. C. The girl is described as about 5 feet 3 inches tall and as weighing 112 pounds. She was wearing a black georgette shirtwaist, a brown tweed sport suit and a small black hat.

HIGH PRICES HIT FINLAND'S RUM CELEBRATION

Whisky $6.50 Per Bottle As Government Prepares To Discard Liquor Law

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 4.—(AP.)—Whisky at $6.50 a bottle and cognac at $9.25 dampened somewhat the widespread celebrations planned for tomorrow when Finland's 12-year-old prohibition law goes into the discard, following last December's referendum.

Some restaurants declared they would refuse to handle the newly-legalized "hard" liquor because of the high price fixed by the government, which has sole control over the trade under the new law.

Another rift between the government and a number of restaurants developed over the margin of profit demanded by the government. The liquor monopoly decreed that it would take 60 per cent of the profits on all sales.

The legislation which followed the referendum was signed by the President on February 9, 10 days after it was passed by Parliament. Gustaf Viktor Walcen, a banker, was made managing director of the liquor monopoly last month.

The law provides that a share of the profit be allotted for "temperance purposes," prevention of illegal traffic, and old age and unemployment funds. The rest is set aside for the state treasury, but part of this is to be allocated to the state's national culture, temperance and benevolent work."

The Helsingfors Alcohol Company ordered that, for the present at least, alcohol may be sold at only nine places in Helsingfors and a purchaser may buy not less than one-third litre nor more than two litres. (A litre is approximately 0.9 quart.) The restrictions were prescribed because the imported supply is not yet equal to the anticipated demand.

Purchases of other liquor are limited to two bottles per person.

BLAST SHAKES SHARPSBURG

Sharpsburg residents were awakened by an explosion which early today damaged the real estate office of Leo Horstman, a reform member of Borough Council, in the heart of the Sharpsburg business district.

The blast, reported at first caused by a bomb, shattered windows in the building and slightly damaged the interior of Horstman's office.

Gas accumulating in a heater which had become extinguished was said by Horstman and police to have caused the explosion. Horstman was recently elected to Borough Council.

SHAW RIDICULES DUTCH, IRISH

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 4.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw arrived today from his winter sojourn in Cape Colony, South Africa, with Shavian remarks about South Africa and Ireland.

Here's what he told the reporters who met him at the gangplank:

"South Africa does not know the war is over—the Boer war. The British and Dutch are still conducting a lively feud. The Dutch are a remarkable people mentally and physically, but religiously they live in the Seventeenth Century and believe in a brimstone hell. The empire ought to send a few missionaries to them. I have done all I can.

"Ireland is like South Africa—the Irish don't know the war is over. The Irish Republican army still thinks Ireland is enslaved and must go on being 'agin' government."

'Lost' Vet Asks Army to Prove Identity

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—(INS.)—Philadelphia's "lost" World War veteran today planned to ask the aid of the War Department to determine his identity.

Failing in every attempt to delve into his memory for some recollection of his past the veteran, Tobias Burke, or Joseph Bond, as he has been known since the World War, is uncertain just what is his true name. He was found in Chicago.

He even failed to recognize the young son he left behind as an infant. His wife is seriously ill and has not been told of the finding of her husband.

Now Bond or Burke plans to call upon the fingerprint experts of the Army to determine if his name really is Burke instead of Bond. Upon the outcome of this identification hinges the disposal of almost $10,000 in war compensation payments for the wounds he received in the war.

HAILSHAM, EAST SUSSEX, England, April 4.—(AP.)—The coroner today returned a verdict that Edward Marjoribanks, brilliant young conservative member of parliament from the Eastborne division, committed suicide Saturday night while not in sound mind.

Young Marjoribanks, in his early thirties was found shot to death in the billiard room in the home of his stepfather, Lord Hailsham. Relatives said he had been suffering from insomnia as the result of overwork.

The M. P., well over six feet, was one of the best-looking men in the House of Commons, and his death caused a sensation in social and political circles.

He was the son of Archibald John Marjoribanks and the former Mysie Brown, of Nashville, Tenn. The young man was educated at Eton and Oxford.

Only 4 Parishioners Hear Accused Pastor

STIFFKEY, Norfolk, England, April 4.—(Universal.)—Only four parishioners attended the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson's church yesterday to hear the country rector, whose ecclesiastical trial on charges of immorality with young women is providing England with a sensation.

The remainder of the congregation was made up of 47 newspapermen and a sprinkling of curiosity seekers. The 60-year-old rector faced newspaper cameras with a smile and led the gathering in singing several hymns.

PONTIFF VOICES CONFIDENCE IN AMERICA

U. S. Offers Great Hope for Development of Spiritual Life, Pope Tells Students

Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, April 4.—Pope Pius XI told 200 ecclesiastical students of the American College in an audience today that the United States offered "great hope for the future in the development of spiritual life." He said:

"America is so dear to us and has offered us so many consolations, we have great confidence in the future."

The Pontiff predicted that the young students for the priesthood would have a large share in this development. He added:

"America is so important, so great a member of the apostolic family. She is both yours and ours."

The Pope referred with evident pleasure to the reception given his international broadcast yesterday as reflected in telegrams from the United States.

Radio Blessing to Peace Advocates Heard in U. S.

NEW YORK, April 4.—(Universal.)—Pope Pius XI, speaking in the hall of the consistory in Vatican City yesterday broadcast a blessing to all who work "with a sincere desire for the common good and endeavor to restore confidence and amity between peoples."

The blessing was given during an address describing the virtues of Alice Leclerc, nun of the seventeenth century who founded the Institute of Our Lady and whose beatification and canonization are expected.

ADDRESS TRANSLATED

A translation of the Pope's words was read in English and was heard in the United States over a national broadcasting company network. The Pope said in part:

"The feast of the Resurrection is not properly celebrated if it does not awaken in the individual his own particular spiritual resurrection and that fullness and persevering spiritual life, the sources of which divine goodness, through the passion and death of Jesus Christ, had opened and kept open, namely, the Sacraments.

"These solemn and salutary reminders take on an added new light when on this day our Divine Redeemer and Master, through our humble ministry, deigns to present for the admiration, and still more for the emulation and universal imitation, the example of a soul that precisely in its ready, generous, always increasingly generous life, corresponding with divine grace and perservering always for perfect fidelity, reaches the very summits of heroism."

Zep Hull Torn in Takeoff, Ocean Flight Halted

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 4.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin, veteran of several non-stop flights from here across the Atlantic to Pernambuco, Brazil, was forced to postpone a scheduled flight today when, in taking off, a great rent, 35 feet long, was torn in the hull.

The Zeppelin works said that because of the great difference in temperature the ship rose slowly, causing the hull to scrape a radio tower.

It was announced later that repairs on the ship were completed and she would take off again tomorrow.

RASKOB'S FATE AS PARTY HEAD IN BALANCE

Democratic Committee's Choice of 'Keynoter' Will Decide Chairman's Future

By WEST PETERSON
International News Service

CHICAGO, April 4.—The immediate political future of John J. Raskob, multi-millionaire chairman of the Democratic National Committee, hung in the balance as the party's arrangements committee met here today to select a convention [illegible].

Reports were that Joseph Shouse, Raskob's choice, would be denied the honor. Shouse has obtained pledges of support from several members of the group, but it was believed his strength was insufficient.

It was believed the committee might pick Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, a Roosevelt adherent, to deliver the keynote address at the convention here in June.

Among other possible choices was Senator [illegible] Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois.

RASKOB IN PERIL

Most of the outstanding members of the national committee also are members of the arrangements committee. For that reason, the defeat of Shouse today would be regarded definitely as a step toward the dethronement of Raskob.

Raskob was appointed by Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Since then Raskob has spent nearly $1,000,000 to improve the party organization.

His firm stand against prohibition, coupled with his reputed friendliness toward Wall street, pledges of support from several rank and file Democrats. He has been charged with holding a "mortgage" on the party.

N. Y. Primary Quiet, Few Contests On

ALBANY, N. Y., April 4.—New York names its delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions this week but with the exception of a local Democratic fight in one corner of the state no one would know that Tuesday is primary day.

In only one district, the Forty-first (Buffalo), are there rival slates of delegates.

The Republican delegation will be favorable to President Hoover. New York will have 97 votes in the G. O. P. convention.

The Democratic delegation will be unpledged. With few exceptions the upstate delegates are Roosevelt men. The state will have 94 votes, of which eight will be cast by delegates at large.

The delegates at large will be named at a state convention in Albany about the middle of the month. It is possible that both Roosevelt and Smith will be delegates at large, although neither has committed himself to that action.

Roosevelt Will Attend Convention

CHICAGO, April 4.—(INS)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, will attend personally the Democratic National Convention here in June, it was learned today.

James A. Farley, manager of Gov. Roosevelt's pre-convention campaign, announced that he had reserved a suite of rooms at the Congress Hotel for the New York Chief Executive for the period of the convention.

REFORM LAWS URGED BY BARR

Support of independent candidates for the Legislature who favor law reforms pertaining to public utility regulations as well as changing state laws regulating city government to weaken the grip of machine politicians was urged by County Commissioner C. M. Barr today before the Pittsburgh Ministerial Union in the Second Presbyterian Church.

Barr declared the type of men sent to Harrisburg will have direct bearing on the next mayoralty and councilmanic race. The proper candidate, he said, should favor public utility and Public Service Commission changes legislation to permit collection of taxes through one office instead of two, and thereby abolish the "political machine war chest," known as the delinquent tax office, and a setup of one welfare bureau instead of two.

The union elected the Rev. H. I. Krause as president to assume office at the next meeting in June.

Wilkinsburg Women Plan Political Meet

A meeting for candidates will be held by the Wilkinsburg Council of Republican Women Thursday night in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg. Congressman M. Clyde Kelly and Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, will speak. All candidates of the district are invited to attend. Mrs. Stella Goffe, president, will preside.

2 Men, Child Die As Auto Tanks Burn

TYLER, Tex., April 4.—(AP)—Two men and a child were burned to death in a fire which resulted from a collision of two gasoline trucks on the Neches River detour bridge today.

Fined for Driving Truck 'Limited' To 30 M. P. H.

A. C. Nesbitt, 32, of 6227 Aurelia street, arraigned in Mt. Washington Police Court today, explained to Magistrate J. J. Sweeney:

"I sassed the cop because he said I was driving my truck 40 miles an hour and it won't do more than 30."

Sweeney answered:

"Then I'll fine you $2 or five days in jail for driving a truck that won't do more than 30 miles an hour."

Nesbitt paid the fine.

PREACHER, AID TO HOBOES, DIES

Albert Klint, 54, homeless preacher and known in the downtown and North Side districts as the hoboes' friend, died today in the county jail of pneumonia.

He was picked up, ill, by North Side police Saturday, and sent to jail on a technical charge of vagrancy by Magistrate Ray Schneider, so he could be cared for by Dr. C. J. Ellis, jail physician.

Klint would assemble vagrants, cook them food and preach to them, police said. He had no permanent home, but is said to have come originally from Davenport, Ia., where he had relatives.

His body was removed to the morgue. If unclaimed it will be cremated.

New York Tenement Commissioner Dies

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP)—Tenement House Commissioner William P. Deegan, 49, died here last night from the effect of an operation for appendicitis.

BRINGING MAIL SUSPECT HERE

Samuel Cohen, alleged mail robber, captured in Reading under a hail of bullets, was to be brought to Pittsburgh tonight by Post Office Inspector Joseph P. Nolan. He is wanted in connection with the theft of a $12,500 mail package from a Pennsylvania Railroad train on January 26.

Suspect Cohen

Detected leaving the house of Kathleen Tomaski, 24, in Reading Saturday night, Cohen's auto was blocked by Detective Sergt. S. Rapp. Cohen threw his car in reverse, whirled around a corner and was speeding away when Detective Zaidzki commandeered an auto and gave chase, firing three shots. Sergt. Rapp followed and joined in the firing. Cohen's car was caught in a traffic jam and a cornerman, attracted by the shooting, arrested Cohen as he leaped from his car. Police say they found two pistols and a tear gas bomb in his apartment. The woman also was held.

Nolan and Postal Inspector George V. Craighead had traced Cohen through a dozen cities since the holdup. A week ago he was indicted by the federal grand jury in Erie, charged with helping in the robbery. Indicted with him were Albert W. Douglas, a member of the train crew, and Herbert Hollander.

Douglas was arrested a short time after the robbery and held in default of bail. Hollander is still at large. All have been residents of the Pittsburgh district.

TRY 2 STUDENTS AS ANTI-REDS

MOSCOW, April 4.—(AP.)—Two former students of Moscow University admitted their guilt when they went on trial for the attempted assassination of Dr. Fritz Von Twardowski, German embassy counselor, a month ago.

Judas Stern, one of the men, insisted he alone was responsible for the pistol attack on the German counselor in a Moscow street, and said his purpose was to endanger Soviet relations with her western neighbors. He denied Japan had figured in the conspiracy, but admitted he had discussed the Far East with his companion and co-defendant, Sergei Vassiliev.

Vassiliev had the same privilege as Stern of making a statement when he pleaded guilty, but declined to exercise his prerogative and sat mute as the examination of witnesses proceeded.

The government charged that the two youths were inspired by "certain Polish citizens." Many of the diplomatic corps, including the German ambassador, the Japanese envoy and representative of the Polish embassy, were present.

The trial, which could result in the death sentence, will involve at least one secret session when the government is expected to take up its charge that outsiders plotted the assassination attempt.

RUM BOAT SUNK SECOND TIME

WESTPORT, Mass., April 4.—(AP.)—A coast guard boat captured the speed boat Yvette June early this morning, with nearly 1,000 cases of liquor which police valued at $40,000, after the stern of the craft had been riddled by machine gun fire and her crew had beached the craft and fled.

The Westport police, who were co-operating with the Coast Guard today in trying to float the boat, said the Yvette June had been ordered to halt and when she failed to obey the command, the government boat opened fire with a machine gun.

The police said there was no evidence that any one aboard the boat had been injured.

The career of the Yvette June has been short, but eventful. On her maiden voyage last fall she was fired upon by the Coast Guard and sunk. Later, she was raised and placed in commission again.

FREDERICKAIDE GIVEN JOB

Further evidence of an alliance between Dr. F. H. Frederick, former ally of Mayor Kline, and the Independents at the coming primaries, was provided today in appointent of Harrmy Pattison, one of Frederick's followers, to a place in the County Elections Bureau.

Pattison's appointment, announced by John W. Vickerman, director of elections, was regarded as emphasizing the split between Frederick and the Mayor and the former's determination to help the Independents in return for their backing him in his efforts to defeat William Herd for Republican chairman of the Twenty-first Ward. Pattison formerly was secretary of the Twenty-first Ward committee.

BLACK WITH WHITE SPRING FAVORITE

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 4.—Just because the color accent is so strongly defined, designers are showing some of their very best models black with white. For it has been found that whenever women are confronted by a lot of color, they wistfully ask for a black frock to lead them out of the maze of color that sometimes is bewildering. Black with touches of white is being seen everywhere in Paris and it looks as though every woman has purchased a model or two to take care of her afternoon wardrobe. For a smart black frock of marocain, crepe satin or heavy crepe de chine with smart white accents can be worn through a season with constant success and satisfaction, while the frock of color, no matter how lovely it may be, is so obtrusive that it cannot be worn so often or with such effect. And in these days of economy, the black frock of the type under discussion is almost a necessity if one is to be well dressed without a tremendous outlay.

* * *

Confidence

McCann Customers Have It

"WHATEVER the price, I know I'm getting my money's worth at McCann's." That's what a customer said to us the other day. That's confidence. Important now when prices are low and stores are tempted to cut quality.

Customers are paying less at McCann's because McCann's is paying less to the producer. Our quality standard has not been lowered. Every dollar spent at McCann's buys a dollar's worth of the best merchandise money can buy. No cutting quality . . . no substitutes . . . no compromises . . . at McCann's.

We're having a Confidence Sale this week . . . to prove again to the thousands who will take advantage of the features that McCann quality is maintained . . . that a bargain is a bargain at McCann's, whether it be butter and eggs, meats or vegetables, soaps or brooms.

AN ALL-STAR RADIO REVUE, inaugurating a nationwide drive to revive prosperity in the automobile industry and billed as the "Work for All Hands" program, is presented by the General Motors Corporation tonight at 9:30 over a coast-to-coast network of 99 stations including WCAE.

Miss Stanley

From the standpoint of headliner talent, the program promises to be one of the major radio events of the year. Such outstanding stars of the ether as Aileen Stanley, Countess Olga Albani, Mildred Bailey, Welcome Lewis, the Kings' Jesters, Melody Quartet, the Revelers with Lewis James, James Melton, Phil Dewey and Wilfred Glenn, and the popular piano team, Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, are featured with headliner orchestras directed by Paul Whiteman, Erno Rapee, Frank Black, Gus Haenschen and Harry Reser. Bruce Barton, author and publicist, makes one of his rare radio appearances to participate in the "invocation to prosperity."

Ely Culbertson, the man who dramatized bridge for millions, starts a series of broadcasts in which he discusses his famous system of play over an NBC network including WCAE today at 4:30 under the sponsorship of William Wrigley, Jr., Company. The bridge expert's wife, Josephine Culbertson, will be heard from time to time during the series broadcast every Monday and Wednesday at 4:30, and Saturday at 8.

VIRGINIA GARDINER, the popular young actress whose heartbeats thousands of radio listeners heard last week, is starred in the Death Valley Days dramatization over KDKA tonight at 8:30 when the Old Ranger tells about the "Children of the Desert". Miss Gardiner

A rebroadcast from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, of a description of the Brazilian coffee harvest by Patrick J. Mulcahey, the world's greatest coffee buyer, is a feature of the Gypsies' tribute to South America program over WCAE tonight at 9.

Three orchestral programs are presented by local musicians in behalf of the Pittsburgh Musical Society's benefit show Wednesday at Syria Mosque to aid unemployed musicians. FRITZI WHITE, young Columbia singer, would rather sing than eat—in fact, she does—. . . Fritzi who is employed as a secretary in a motion picture concern, utilizes her lunch hour every day but Sunday to broadcast with George Hall and his orchestra. . . . That KQV serial "Dr. Dragonette," which concludes this week, has evoked about 3,000 letters from appreciative listeners. . . . Elliott Shaw, based of the NBC Cavaliers, says he got his biggest thrill when he found a job as delivery boy and was paid $5 at the end of the first week instead of the $3.50 promised him.

Miss White

Joe Boley, announcer, wrote the playlet presented in the interest of the Senator Harris "Family-Help-Family" Relief Plan over WJAS yesterday afternoon. Jim Hughes, program director, portrayed the leading role.

Welcome Lewis, who's always looking for new "cute" numbers, says a real good "cute" song hasn't been written since "Would You Like to Take a Walk?" . . . Nick Lucas isn't exactly superstitious, but he always has three guitars in the studio when he broadcasts . . . A string broke once when he was playing a solo over the air . . .

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

A Perfect Happiness Is An Adolescent's Dream

Has a wife the right to expect her husband to give her "perfect happiness"?

And has she a kick coming if he doesn't?

Lyla thinks she has; and she's plenty sorry for herself because she's suffering from "a heart hunger" which the big boy doesn't satisfy. Have you a similar complaint? Then listen in!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"Maybe you'll think this is just a silly letter, but I hope you will answer it, because my problem is one that is simply driving me mad, and I don't know what to do. Please pretend that I am your daughter, and tell me what you think, straight from the shoulder.

"I am a young woman of 30, a columnist on small papers, and I have lately been writing for a certain magazine on modern matrimony, but I can't seem to get my own life straightened out.

IS RESTLESS

"This month I shall have been married 11 years. Jim, my husband, is one of the finest men in the world; not clever, perhaps, but with the finest character, the highest of ideals and aims, and he loves me with all his heart and proves it daily.

"We didn't have a dime when we married, and we have stood shoulder to shoulder and worked hard, and now we have a nice home and the usual modern conveniences, a roadster, etc. I have a college education, and Jim reads and studies a great deal. We honestly have a million things in common.

"We are both frightfully idealistic and sentimental. He has the sweetest disposition, while I am high-strung, sharp-tongued and impatient. So you can see he is a perfect balance for me.

"He was my first real sweetheart, but not my last one; for I have had more romances than is good for me, I guess. There has been lots of beauty and happiness in our marriage, yet I feel simply maddened sometimes—as if I couldn't stand going on another day. There is a terrible restlessness—a heart hunger—inside me, that almost consumes me sometimes.

PRAYS FOR CONTENTMENT

"I'll admit any day that Jim is one of the finest men living, yet I am always looking ahead, praying for just a sort of heart satisfaction, not a thrill, but to know a perfect contentment. I have tried to kid myself that it is not serious, but it is growing on me. There is no other man. And Jim doesn't bore me . . . but he just doesn't satisfy my deepest heart hunger, that I long to have satisfied. I've cried about it; and sometimes I feel that it is unfair of me to go on with him when I feel this way (for he knows of it), robbing him of his right to happiness, and killing something in myself.

"Please help me. What do you think? What is wrong?

"LYLA."

Will you put your hand in mine, Lyla, look straight in my eyes and believe that a friend is talking to you, one who wants with all her heart to help you? All right, then; come on!

You wonder what is the matter with you. Nothing in the world, youngster, except that you are lazy, conceited and spoiled. And you are playing with the terrible values of life and love as a silly little girl would play with a fragile gem, whose exquisite texture she could not estimate.

"You have a heart hunger for something you've never known." G'wan. Be your age! Of course you have a heart hunger, who hasn't? You'll always have heart hungers that can't be satisfied; and the more idle and self-centered you are, the bigger crop you'll raise.

You think your husband doesn't give you everything you want out of life. Of course he doesn't. Why should he? Why hang the responsibility for your happiness and contentment on any poor man's neck?

JUST ONE CURE

Why, if you are a mature person fit to talk about real life, should you be so adolescent as to expect perfect happiness or contentment?

You talk like a baby, and you're living like one, Lyla. There's just one cure for your commonest of complaints, and that is: Get something or someone besides yourself to think about, preferably, a baby.

If you don't, sure as God made little apples you're going to go messing around looking for a "romance" and hurting every bit of happiness you can ever hope to have.

How do I know all this? Because I once was a young fool, too. And I would thank God today if someone had given me this straight talk that I am giving you.

Now, snap out of it! Stop acting like a love-sick school girl. You are a married woman of 30, with an adoring husband, in a pitiful and tragic world. And if you can't find some poor devil to help, and by so doing forget yourself, then you should be ashamed of Lyla!

Fay King Complains of New Shoes That Bring Blisters Instead of Comfort

By FAY KING

Being a pedestrian who depends entirely upon ankle power, nothing is more important in my life than comfortable shoes.

Many persons take less time picking out a costly car than I do picking out comfy shoes.

I like nice roomy shoes in which I can roam right out of the store where I buy them, with plenty of heel space, cozy as the rumble seat of a snappy roadster.

But lately a high-powered salesman sent me off in a pair of shoes a size or so too "smart!"

Alas! It was but a step from bliss to blisters!

Result is I've been hobbling about with a hellish temper and a frown that frightens little children, but unfortunately, does not stop traffic!

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Steady Progress Made in Treating Bright's Disease

Dr. Copeland

Early in the eighteenth century Richard Bright, an eminent English physician, first described the diseases of the kidney. Since then many disorders of the kidney have been carelessly referred to as "Bright's disease." This is unfortunate, for not all kidney ailments are forms of Bright's disease. Due to the change in our manner of living and eating, this disease is not nearly so common as formerly.

Bright's disease is really inflammation of the kidneys and it may be of the acute or chronic type. It usually afflicts persons past middle age, and it is rarely recognized in its early stages. As the disease progresses, the patient becomes short of breath upon the slightest exertion. This symptom becomes more and more prominent, and may be accompanied by severe headache and perhaps by some disturbance in the sight.

The blood pressure is high and the blood vessels become firm and thick. As the disease advances the shortness of breath increases and the heart enlarges. Urine examination shows definite changes which are characteristic of the disease. This test helps to prevent confusing Bright's disease with certain disorders of the kidney.

In Bright's disease the function of the kidneys is disturbed; they are unable to carry away the waste materials.

To overcome this weakness the patient is given a diet containing small amounts of the protein foods. In severe cases milk may be the only safe food. If this is well borne, it will supply the nourishment needed. Water should be given freely. In cases with marked swelling of feet and legs, a "salt-free diet" should be prescribed.

Salt is not used at all in the food prescribed in the diet for Bright's disease. For this reason ham, bacon, tongue and smoked or salted meat or fish are forbidden. Even bread, cake or biscuits, unless made at home without salt, should not be given, and the patient must avoid all cheese, salted butter and shellfish.

Tea, coffee and cocoa with cream may be taken in moderation. Sweet butter, jam, marmalade and honey, eggs, raw or cooked, fresh fruits, salads and raw vegetables are permitted. Cooked vegetables are permissable only if they have been cooked in several changes of unsalted water.

Great advances have been made since the days of Sir Richard Bright. Many cases of Bright's disease are now successfully treated, and it is hoped that within a short time the disease will no longer be considered a serious one. Please do not assume, because you have some kidney pain or urinary complaint, that you are a sufferer from Bright's disease.

If you have not recently consulted with your physician, do so now. A complete physical examination, which should include a urinalysis, is essential for proper advice and treatment.

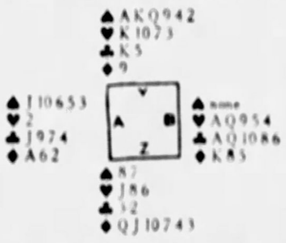
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Be Careful in Disturbing a Satisfactory Condition

Unless you can outbid opponents with safety, or unless you can defeat an attempt at game, pass a bid that cannot go game, provided its bidder sits at your left. Had Y acted in this manner B would have suffered a loss at hearts instead of going game at clubs. Holdings about the table were as shown below.



Y made a legitimate third hand opening bid of 1-Spade, which B overcalled with 2-Hearts. Both Z and A passed, although an onlooker might wonder why the latter did not ask a shift of make of B, by bidding 2-No Trumps. Perhaps A hoped that Y would rebid spades and that B would not oppose. Hearts happened to be Y's second best suit. What better could he have asked than to have the make stand? Under the circumstances Y should have passed. Instead of allowing opponents to play a losing contract, Y bid 2-Spades. B escaped from a dangerous declaration, into a game-going make, by bidding 4-Clubs, to show his great strength. As an opponent had opened the bidding, B's jumped shift was not an absolute demand that A respond, but it was a strong invitation which A was glad to recognize. He bid 5-Clubs. Y doubled.

Z led his top spade. Dummy "split honors," by playing the 10; Y put on the Q, and the declarer trumped. The only entry to dummy was either by ruffing a heart, after B had led his Ace, or, better still, by leading a low diamond for dummy to win with the Ace. The latter alternative was chosen. Dummy's only heart was led; Y played low, and the trick was won by a finesse of the Q. One of dummy's diamonds was discarded upon the Ace of hearts, and dummy ruffed the third lead of hearts, giving B his fifth straight trick.

The sixth trick consisted of dummy's 4 of clubs, Y's 5, B's 8 and Z's 2. Unless one opponent or the other was false-carding, Z held the 3 of clubs and Y held the lone K. In any event, only the missing K of trumps was dangerous. For his seventh trick B led a low heart, and trumped with dummy's 9. The fall of the K left good B's last heart.

B had no idea just how many spades Y held. His rebid showed at least five, which would give him another diamond. In case Y held originally six spades he had no more diamonds. The safest lead from dummy appeared to be a diamond. If Y had false-carded on clubs he could trump the diamond with his 3, but then B could pick up his bare K of clubs when next he was in the lead. If Y had not false-carded in clubs, and if Y had no more diamonds he would have to ruff with his K. As B saw no possible way of making a grand slam, he did not care if Y trumped a diamond lead. Dummy's last diamond was lead, and Y ruffed with his K, but every card left in B's hand was a winner, so that he fulfilled his game contract, doubled, with one overtrick.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Formal Birthday Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We are giving a formal birthday dinner to an unmarried gentleman. Will you tell us where the honored guest should be seated?

2. Please tell me, too, if it is proper to use, in setting the table, bread and butter plates?

J. D. E.

1. The man guest of honor should be seated on the right of the hostess.

You can, too, by the way, if you are not to use place cards, make this seating arrangement very graciously given if you say to him as you enter the dining room, "Bob, won't you sit at my right?" or "Mr. Allen, I have seated you at my right." At the mention of the hostess' right, the guest of honor will know that he has been given the honor place.

2. If your dinner is to be a strictly formal one, no bread and butter plates are placed. At a formal dinner, no butter is served, and this is true, too, at most semi-formal dinners.

But if your dinner is not strictly formal, and if you are going to serve celery, olives or something of this kind, you will probably wish to place a bread and butter plate as a "harbor" for these food accessories.

A Poor Defense

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend has a habit of eating with her elbows on the table. I told her about this, and said that it was very impolite. She maintains that modern etiquette allows it. I was not convinced of her statement, however, so I am asking you for your authority. I. H. C.

You are right. I think the young lady is "making up" her own etiquette to fit her wishes—don't you agree?

Studio Can't Make Up Mind

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—Universal still can't make up its mind about a long term contract for Genevieve Tobin, but Carl Laemmle, Jr., wants her to do at least one more picture.

Dainty blond Miss Tobin just hits the feminine lead in "Forgive Us Our Sins," a German novel by Max Verbacher, which Universal has just bought. If she wants it, the role is hers, and the "U" has its eye on Pauline Frederick for another important part.

Hobart Henley will be sitting in the directors chair when the picture starts.

Nothing could be more fortunate for Miss Tobin than to have the Chevalier picture, "One Hour With You," released just as she is talking contract with Universal.

Here's a laugh. A woman in the maternity ward of a Los Angeles hospital called Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to find the correct spelling of Joan Crawford's name. She said she was expecting her baby to be born in a few hours and if it turned out to be a girl she wanted to name it after Joan . . .

An air view of my alma mater, Columbia. They'll be back in Hollywood soon . . . Mark down on Hollywood's credit sheet the way Renee Adoree's friends have remembered her. Renee wrote the other day that she wished she could go shopping in Los Angeles for a new Easter hat. The next mail carried one back to her.

SHERMAN IN SWITCH

That columnist story, "Is My Face Red?" is not to be directed by Lowell Sherman, after all. David Selznick decided he wants Lowell to play the part of the motion picture director in "The Truth About Hollywood." So the switch was made and now William Seiter is to direct the columnist story.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Katharine Cornell will be on the Alvin stage tonight opening her week's engagement in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," Rudolf Besier's drama of the Brownings. It is announced that the curtain will rise promptly at 8:15 o'clock and patrons are urged to arrive at the theater in time to be seated before the play begins. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday will be at 2:15 o'clock. Miss Cornell is on the stage when the curtain rises. In Baltimore last week Miss Cornell broke all records for attendance at a dramatic production.

* * *

The bill in the Alvin next week will be "Grand Hotel," Vicki Baum's dramatization of her novel of the same title. Eugenie Leontovich, last seen here in "Candle Light," will be featured in the role of the ballet dancer, while the part of the bookkeeper doomed to die and determined to have "a time" before he does, is played by Sam Jaffe. Matinees will be as usual, Wednesday and Saturday.

The Hero

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has the hero role in "It's Tough to be Famous," which will open Friday on the Stanley screen.

Two feature-length pictures are current in the Harris. One is "The Guilty Generation," featuring Boris Karloff and Leo Carrillo. It is an underworld melodrama. The other is "Women Men Marry," with Sally Blane and Kenneth Harlan prominent. It is all about wives and husbands running wild.

Lot of Laughs In Comedy At Tech

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Rarely does a first play by a dramatic novice arouse such genuine enthusiasm as did "Who'll Take Papa?" by Harriet Avery Gaul, on its initial performance at the Little Theater of Tech Drama School last Saturday night. The play is a comedy with a strong infusion of farce, and revolves around the "inside politics" of a family whose mother has died, leaving the old homestead to Papa and twenty grand to each of the five children. The children then decide that Papa is to sell the home and move with one of them. At the beginning of the play each thinks one of the others should take Papa; at the close every one is willing to take Papa, but somebody else has already taken him.

Mr. Selbel

In its character drawing the play is very good, and in its dialogue it is often brilliant. If too much of the plot hinges upon chance, like that convenient thunderstorm and the well-timed jag of the one son, that is a fault which is often a virtue in farce. More serious is the point that the drunkenness of March at the close of act two is disgusting rather than humorous, and the retired opera singer who accepts his attentions leads one to doubt her intelligence. Papa also is rather too simple to get much sympathy. And the conclusion of the play becomes so obvious at the beginning of act three that things drag, while the audience is waiting to be told what it already knows.

The setting designed by William Behrse and James Lindsay was exceptionally effective. Among the actors Olivia Kelly played with Janecowlish charm and spirit, Chester Wallace gave youthful vigor to one of the sons, and Robert Gill as the juvenile anarchist needed only a soap box to be perfect. William Beal as Papa and Henrietta Siskin as a slovenly-impudent maid also did well. Indeed, the entire cast seemed to enjoy having a share in the introduction of a new playwright whose first work ran so smoothly through its amusing situations. As for the audience, they enjoyed it so well that they insisted upon dragging forth the author. Mrs. Gaul may get used to that after awhile.

AMUSEMENTS.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

IN A RECENT column, I told of a restaurant in Hollywood that had hit upon what I thought was a novel way of dealing with people who passed worthless checks. After several efforts to collect the money and after a sufficient time had elapsed, the management takes the rubber check and places it prominently in a case that stands at the entrance. Thus, with all Hollywood looking on, the bird who didn't pay becomes an immediate bum. And the worthless check passing in that restaurant has become almost negligible.

From William F. Brown, of Chicago, however, I now learn that the idea is by no means a new one. It seems that it was first tried out in one of the largest hotels in Detroit, Mich., a few years back. It was tried out, that is, and immediately discarded. And the story back of the episode is rather amusing.

The manager of that hotel had grown highly exasperated because of the large number of checks that were bouncing back at him. He fretted and he fumed and he tried to be extremely careful about whose check the hotel cashed. But it was no use. He couldn't insult people, because the establishment would immediately lose business. So the "insufficient funds" kept coming back at an alarming rate.

Suddenly the idea hit him. Why not give the guppers a little publicity? Why not expose them so that others might know? The hotel was always filled with out-of-towners and if Joe Doakes, of Nashville, Tenn., had left a phony check with the management, some friends from the same city would be sure to see it eventually and slip the bad news to Joe. Surely an expose could do no harm—and it might do a great deal to discourage other gentlemen with naughty ideas in that direction.

No sooner thought of than done. The very next day, a little glass box was conspicuously displayed in the lobby of the hotel. Carefully pinned on green felt were plenty of the phony checks that had been returned to the hotel. And all visitors were given the opportunity to commit to memory the names of conscienceless people who had been so debased as to give bad checks to a trusting hotel manager.

Now it so happened that among the guests of that hotel at the moment was a stalwart and handsome gentleman. He spent several minutes around the glass case and finally walked into the manager's office. He introduced himself in a most affable manner.

"My name's Williams," he asserted as he shook hands, "and I'm stopping with you a few days. I happened to pass that bad check case in the lobby and I was highly amused. It's quite a novel idea."

The manager's chest did a Londos.

"Thank you, Mr. Williams," he returned. "It's just a little idea of my own that I hope will do some good. You'd be amazed to know how much trouble we hotel people have with rubber checks."

Mr. Williams nodded.

"You're perfectly right, sir," he agreed, "but there's one check out there that I wanted to talk to you about. It's signed by Frank Jones, of Syracuse, N. Y., and I'm certain there must be a mistake somewhere.

"It so happens that Syracuse is my home town and that I know Jones quite well. He's not a poor man by any means, and I'm positive there must have been a slip-up in the bank. I know that, when I get back to Syracuse, I can collect the money for you."

The manager was highly interested. I suppose that you or I would have felt the same in his position. The check had been drawn for $200, and the two men talked about it for some time. In the end, Mr. Williams offered to buy the check from the hotel.

"Tell you what I'll do," he chirped. "If you wish, I'll give you $75 for that check. Old Frank is a good bird and I know it will be a good investment for me. On the other hand, you'll get $75 for a piece of paper that is worthless to you now. How does it strike you?"

It struck the manager very well indeed. He accepted the proposition with alacrity. Mr. Williams paid out $75 in cash and the check in question was turned over to him. When his visitor had departed, the manager smiled happily to himself.

"What an idea that was!" he crowed. "That case has only been out there a few hours and I've already done plenty for the hotel. Not bad."

Did Mr. Williams ever collect from Frank Jones? Well, my friends, I don't think he ever tried. For, a few days later, that same $200 check came back to the hotel. And once again, the attached slip stated that the cause was insufficient funds.

The explanation was simple. The hotel indorsement had been placed on the back of the check when it was first deposited, and all Mr. Williams had done was to take it to another hotel and have it cashed.

The manager was out the original $125—plus $200 more—and the check case came out of the lobby 20 minutes later! . . .

COMES A letter from Bob Ripley, creator of "Believe It or Not," who was in Sydney, Australia, at the time he wrote me. Bob inclosed another letter that had been sent to him at his hotel. It was signed by a man named R. D. Booth, whose gave his address as the Maitland Jail, in Australia. Get a load of a part of it:

"Dear Mr. Ripley: I noticed in the papers that you were coming here and I wondered if you could help me out with a little assistance until I get back to New York. I came here eight months ago, but unfortunately got into a little trouble at Newcastle and was sent to jail up here.

"Back in New York, Mark Hellinger is holding $1,000 for me. I have sent to him for return fare, but I do not expect it for another three weeks. If you could help me a little, I would repay same as soon as I reach New York and see Mark."

Say, Rip, if by any chance you happen to see this piece, be assured that I don't know Mr. Booth. And the very fact that he even thinks I have $1,000 shows conclusively that he doesn't know me! . . .

Clergymen Stress Urgency of Family Aid Campaign

RELIEF PLEAS IN CHURCHES BROADCAST

Fortunate Must Assist Destitute, Dr. Goldenson Says; Theaters Aid Drive

In hundreds of churches yesterday the plight of destitute families was presented gorously by pastors of all denominations, Several of the sermons were broadcast,

Senator Frank J. Harris, originator of the family-aid-family plan, and Roy A. MacGregor, his aide, were scheduled to appear for 10 minutes before members of the Twentieth Century Club today.

Radio speakers yesterday included the Very Rev. N. R. H. Moor, dean of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, and the Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

DR. GOLDENSON TALKS

Speaking in Rodef Shalom Temple, Fifth and Morewood avenues, Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson voiced a plea for the brotherly care of the destitute families. He said in part:

"We have, of course, been troubled by reversals in our own fortunes, and by pressure in our own circumstances. Yet this is clear: i there is any among us who is not obliged to ask help, that one is fortunate.

"There are today—there should be—only two classes: Those who are unfortunate and must ask assistance, and those who are fortunate and should help the others in proportion to their good fortune. A righteous measure would be to give, not less because others could give more, but more because so many others have less.

BETTER THAN LUXURIES

"We have long been urged to put money back into circulation. What better way could we discover whereby to accomplish this than by giving to these needy, so that our money may go for food, for clothes, for rent—ultimately a far better way than buying luxuries for ourselves."

Twenty-four theaters, including the Warner group, plan to show short films dealing with the campaign, while 72 smaller theaters in the city and county are cooperating in a similar way through Fred J. Herrington, of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Western Pennsylvania.

Etna Youth Hurt On Train Crossing

John Krizmanich, 20, of Spang way, Etna, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with a fractured skull, received, police said, when he was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train while crossing the tracks at Butler street, Etna.

Polo, racing and horse shows all doing great work to help the farmer and rancher to raise better horses. Legalize racing in every state. BARE SHORTAGE IN SCHOOL FUND

A shortage of $29,404 in School Board funds, during the administration of Roy D. Schooley, deposed and indicted former City Treasurer, was reported in the Price, Waterhouse & Co. audit made public by City Controller James P. Kerr today.

Kerr said the audit showed $21,000 of this amount was due to issuance of tax receipts for checks which were not deposited and for unreported collections of cash; $5,904 through defalcations of David A. Rodgers, former City Treasurer's office employe, who recently ended his life, and $5,904 because of school tax collections not reported by Albert Brander, indicted as a result of the City Treasurer's accounts audit.

The audit also revealed, Kerr said, that $5,273.03, of the school lunch fund, had been placed in banks without collateral.

Several minor recommendations in handling the school funds were suggested by the auditors.

Woman, Boy Burned Fighting Mine Fire

A woman and a boy were in St. Francis Hospital today with burns suffered while extinguishing a blaze in a fan house at the Star Mining Company, near Monongahela, Saturday night.

Mrs. Neva Simmons, 51, was severely burned on the face and hands, and James Rostosky, 7, suffered burns of the legs and arms when he went to her aid. William Simmons, watchman at the mine and husband of the woman, was treated for slight burns.

2 Volunteers Hurt At Heidelberg Fire

Two Heidelberg volunteer firemen were slightly injured fighting a stubborn blaze which partly destroyed the two-story frame dwelling of August Fenric in Grant street, Heidelberg, early today.

Damage was estimated at $3,000 by Fire Chief L. Rupprecht, of East Carnegie. The family was absent.

TWO BOYS SHOT IN ROBBERY CHASE

High School Youth Near Death After Struggle in Rear of E. Liberty Store

A 16-year-old Westinghouse High School boy and his 17-year-old companion were shot, the former probably fatally, when they attempted to escape police of an East Liberty radio cruiser who surprised them in an attempt to enter a Larimer avenue chain store early today, according to a police report.

The high school boy is Michael Delgrosso, of 703 Larimer avenue. His abdomen and thigh were pierced by two of the four shots from Patrolman Albert Buck's revolver, and in the Pittsburgh Hospital, where the policeman removed him, little hope is held for his recovery.

SECOND SHOOTING

It was the second time within a few days' police in East Liberty have shot down robbery suspects. Joseph McAfee, 18, of 413 North Aiken avenue, died Saturday in West Penn Hospital from a bullet wound inflicted by Patrolman Martin Corcoran when he fled from a stolen car after a five-mile chase.

Cocoran was turned over to the coroner today and released on his own recognizance pending the inquest. The killing of McAfee was the first time in his 14 years on the force that he has been required to use his gun, Cocoran said.

Delgrosso's companion was Anthony LaPopa, of 619 Thompson street. With a bullet in his leg he is in the Belvedere Hospital, where he limped unassisted after he had escaped, police said.

The shooting occurred in a dark alley beside an A. & P. store at 612 Larimer avenue. Silvio Gismondi, 16, who lives on the second floor of the store, told police he heard the suspects forcing the rear windows of the storeroom and notified his mother.

RADIO CAR WARNED

Sergt. Daniel Bradley said he received a call from the woman and dispatched a radio car operated by Patrolmen Buck and John Pronio.

Buck entered the alley. He said he encountered Delgrosso unexpectedly. The suspect struck the officer a hard blow with a two-foot iron jimmy, according to the police report.

The two struggled, and the officer said he fired four shots. Two of these stopped Delgrosso, who had started to flee. He dropped less than 10 feet away, according to the report.

Patrolman Buck said he saw only one suspect. It was not until later, when they were called to the Belvedere Hospital, that police learned one of Buck's shots wounded LaPoppa. Hospital attaches told police the boy, painfully wounded, came to the hospital for medical aid, saying that he had been shot during a robbery. He asked the hospital not to call police.

LaPopa, from his hospital bed, police say, admitted a robbery had been planned and that he was a lookout, according to homicide detectives, who said they obtained the boy's statement.

Returning to the scene the officers said they found several panels had been removed from the boarded rear windows of the store in what they described as an attempt to enter the building. The jimmy with which the officer had been struck was found in the alley.

Delgrosso's aged mother and his sister, who live less than a block from where the boy was shot, came to the hospital where the victim was lying unconscious on an operating table. Police were unable to get a statement from him. His father, James Delgrosso, is critically ill.

Billion Dollar Tax Levy Fails To Worry B. Baer

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

They tell us that the spanked child dreads the hot slipper. But it's strange that the extra billion tax hasn't changed our lives any.

We are the lightest taxed nation in the world. And slapping a billion tax on us is like putting a good jockey on a wild horse. He runs all the faster.

Of course we fought the Revolution because we objected to remote control on taxes. We didn't want the Atlantic Ocean between us and the cheery ring of the cash register.

But that billion tax is all in the family. It will pull us out of the hole. If the rope breaks we'll grab another billion somewhere, pay off and start life all over again.

You ain't broke until you can't borrow. Ben Franklin was right when he said save your pennies and use lead slugs in the slot machines.

The English bankers say America is in good shape. That's always the way. You've got to consult the neighbors to find out how you stand at home.

TRANSIT BOARD DISCUSSES JOB PROJECT

50 Per Cent of Downtown Trolleys Would Not Enter Loop, According to Plans

The subway plan presented to the City Transit Commission by Edward Snodgrass, Jr., would involve the short-looping on the surface of 50 per cent of the street cars entering the downtown district, it was revealed following a special session of the commission yesterday.

The location of the subway and the estimated cost were the principal matters discussed by the commission. No decision was reached. The costs of the subway as designed by Norman F. Brown are being analyzed by Winters Haydock, engineer for the commission.

The only cars using the subway under the Snodgrass-Brown plan would be those crossing the Smithfield Street Bridge and a shuttle line around the loop, Snodgrass said. All other lines would be short-looped at the edge of the subway except the crosstown line and cars to run on Smithfield and Wood streets, he declared.

LOOK TO FUTURE

Provision would be made for connecting the subway at some later date with the lines on Second avenue, Diamond street and Penn avenue. The South Hills cars, 25 per cent of the total and numbering 155 per hour, would use only a portion of the capacity of the tube.

The Snodgrass plan would build a subway under Grant street, Seventh avenue, Liberty avenue, Ferry and Water streets. The Transit Commission favors a loop under Smithfield street, Seventh avenue, Liberty avenue, Ferry street and Third avenue.

EARLY START POSSIBLE

In a recent statement to City Council, Snodgrass said that with co-ordinated and favorable action the subway can be started within the next two months. Before the Transit Commission he interpreted this to mean that the work might be started within that time after all the necessary arrangements are made.

Details which must be worked out include an adoption of a route, an operating agreement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, sale of bonds and preparation of plans and specifications for bidders. The Transit Commission holds it will require six months to start construction after these details are handled.

2 MEN HELD AS CARD SHARPS

Alexander Golding, 28, and Max Brooks, 26, both of New York, made their second appearance in two days in Central Police Court this morning and were sent to jail for five days while city detectives investigate their records.

Detectives testified the men, with two others, rode excursion trains from New York to Pittsburgh, playing poker with "suckers," using marked cards. Sunday, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg fined each $5 upon their promise to leave town at once. Early today they were arrested in the William Penn Hotel by Detectives William Sullivan and Edward Weizenhofer.

WALSH SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Asserting new evidence has been discovered that will be submitted to District Attorney A. T. Park, Attorney Benjamin Lencher today argued that a new trial be granted Paul Walsh, son of the police superintendent, and Saul Klein, battalion fire chief, convicted of conspiracy in the First Ward vote fraud case.

Lencher declared:

"This evidence which we believe will warrant a new trial will be presented to the District Attorney as soon as my colleague, Charles B. Pritchard, returns to the city."

Lencher contended the verdict was against the weight of the evidence inasmuch as Frank Alpert, subordinate assessor, who turned state's evidence, was uncorroborated.

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk argued against a new trial, holding the verdict was in accordance with the evidence. Presiding Judge Elder W. Marshall and visiting Judges J. Frank Graff and David W. Henderson heard the arguments.

Bettis Parachute Jumpers Halted by High Winds

High winds yesterday caused cancellation of three of the scheduled parachute jumps at Curtiss-Bettis Airport. After Michael Kertis, 18, of 6 Alexis street, leaped from a roaring plane to the landing field, authorities at the port decided to postpone the remainder of the flights until next Sunday.

The three other jumpers scheduled yesterday were May Wonn, 21, of 310 Johnson avenue; James Oldham, 21, of 100 Blackhawk street, Swissvale, and Steve Klucsor, 20, of 1407 Marshall avenue.

The schedule announced by port authorities for next Sunday will include parachute jumps in connection with several air races which have been planned. The event will mark the opening of the summer flying season at the airport.

Clark Defends Reduction In Pensions for Police

Sound business principles require a reduction in pensions of retired patrolmen from $86 to $50 a month, Public Safety Director James M. Clark and Police Supt. P. P. Walsh declared today. Clark said:

"The pension fund which at present has about $2,000,000 on interest, is being depleted at the rate of $450,000 a year or $130,000 more than the total income. This cannot go on forever without exhausting the principal.

"The proposal to reduce the pensions of all retired men, which is to be voted on by the board of directors of the pension fund the latter part of this month, is purely a move to conserve the fund so that men who are retired in the future can have a pension.

"Next June 162 more men will be pensioned putting a further drain on the fund. A majority of the present patrolmen favor the reduction. The present pensioners objecting to it are, I am afraid, actuated by selfish motives."

EXHIBIT SHOWS INNOVATIONS IN DESIGN

Utilitarian Objects Given Attractiveness Through 'Functionalism' Method

By PENELOPE REDD

The exhibition presented by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, through April 16, may prove as significant in the realm of visual arts as their experiments in radio have proved in that of audibility.

A new [illegible] art or design for utilitarian objects is being formulated. The exhibition of sketches and models in rooms dedicating fourteen [illegible] panels exemplifies engine and parking units as the point of departure for [illegible] world.

The [illegible] word for this style is "functionalism." In the Westinghouse exhibition the word has a dual meaning. It refers both to the function of the object in relation of the design and also to the function of the machine in producing the design.

Handicraft work, as we all know, ceased to play an active part early in the nineteenth century with the development of the machine. Design languished as the zest to perfect material processes became paramount in the new technic.

HISTORIC STYLES

Not until the second decade of the twentieth century did Americans concern themselves greatly with the problem of design in machine-produced objects. The first attempts encouraged the adaptation of historic models. Consequently, we were flooded with variants of every historic style applied to modern objects many of which had not existed in by-gone days.

Actually it is only within the past seven years that the logical conclusion has been recognized that the design of the object must be conceived in harmony with the potentialities of the machine.

Now we are beginning to see "functionalism" domesticated. The commonplace things of life will in the future reconcile function and appearance. They will not deceive in the disguise of historic styles. Rather will regard for the laws of orderly design effect a beauty eloquent in a new idiom.

NEW MATERIALS

New materials such as the Westinghouse "micarta" which is made either of paper, cloth or wood, chemically fortified against human carelessness, stimulate the designer to visual combinations and adventures in design as yet unconceived by the consuming public.

Donald Dohner and his assistants, all former Tech students, are undertaking at the Westinghouse a form of co-operative designing that tests the imagination. Incidentally they are training engineers in industrial design as well as exercising their deliberate skill in everything that happens in that tremendous industrial plant from the color design of a generator to the aluminum mural in an experimental bathroom.

URGES HARMONY OF ALL CREEDS

A plea for all churches and synagogues to meet the challenge of the world with a united front and teach the fundamentals of their own religion to bring about good will and mutual understanding between the people of various beliefs was voiced yesterday by Rabbi Benedict Glazer, assistant rabbi of the Rodef Shalom Congregation. He spoke before members of the First Unitarian Church Elsworth and Morewood avenues on "Is Good Will Between Jew and Christian Possible?" He said:

"Churches that teach bigotry should not exist; universities that have racial rights should be eliminated, and love and kindness and mercy should be taught to children, who are the most fruitful to sow seeds of prejudice."

Rabbi Glazer concluded with the thought that the challenge in bringing about religious liberties and mutual understandings rests in the hands of the majority group, which is in a position to extend its hands to the minority groups.

More effective for Colds than all the drugs in the world...

the hot MUSTARD bath

WHEN you feel a cold coming on, don't dose yourself with drugs. Doctors say that this is ineffective and dangerous.

Play safe—and at the same time get results with the treatment that the best modern doctors approve—the hot mustard bath.

Before retiring, fill your tub with hot water. Put four heaping tablespoons of Colman's Mustard into a cup with a little cold water and blend until it forms a thin paste. Pour this into your tub, mix well, hop in and lie in the warm water for ten to fifteen minutes. Dry gently on a soft towel, get into bed and cover up.

The mustard will not burn. You feel it only as a gentle warmth.

You'll wake up in the morning with every cold symptom gone. That is, if you've taken the cold in time. But even advanced colds are helped by a mustard bath.

Always keep Colman's in your bathroom and your kitchen, because only in Colman's do you find such wonderful medicinal properties. At all grocers and druggists.

Colman's Mustard

Mustard is one of the oldest and most effective remedies known. It was used by Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," 400 B.C. and it is still listed as "official" among curative drugs.

Joseph Hartman, 29, 7234 Race street, was arraigned before Magistrate Charles Papale for two holdups in the P. H. Butler grocery, Collier and Monticello streets.

On March 26, the opening day of the store, Hartman is said to have held up Wilfred Disher, manager, three clerks and eight customers and escaped with $77. Last Friday he is said to have returned and held up three clerks and the manager, obtaining $61.40.

George Walker, 27, Negro, 131 Stranahan street, from whom Hartman is said to have borrowed a revolver for each holdup, was held on two charges of being an accessory. Police said Hartman paid Walker for the use of the weapon.

Girl Committed To Home in Fraud

BEAVER, Pa., April 4.—Rosie Strohar, 14, of Aliquippa, who, according to Miss Cora I. Blackledge, Juvenile Court officer, confessed she had sent two extortion letters to her parents to obtain money on which to get married, was committed to the Home of the Good Shepherd, in Pittsburgh.

John Parkovic, 21, and his brother, Mike, 19, today were discharged for lack of evidence by Justice of the Peace M. J. Kane of Aliquippa. They had been arrested in an alleged kidnaping and extortion plot.

Question Suspects In Cadogan Death

BUTLER, Pa., April 4.—State police today questioned Walter Dempsey, John Lukes and Nick Nickleach, all of Cadogan, in connection with the death of William Montgomery, 38, of Cadogan, found crushed along the highway, near here. State police said Montgomery was thrown or fell from an auto. The four left together in the auto, but the prisoners say they do not know what happened to Montgomery.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

TRADE SETBACK LAID TO HOUSE TAX MAKING

Counter Deflationary Acts Partially Nullified by New Levies, Experts Hold

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, April 4.—A reading of the verdict of the stock ticker last week warrants the deduction that Wall street felt that proposed unscientific tax making at Washington had offset the constructive effect of the so-called reconstruction program of which an earlier temporary halt had been based.

In the case between organized human intelligence and chance intervention through enlightened co-operation between government and business has been impaired in effectiveness since the outset of the depression by the tendency of one move to nullify another.

Furthermore, in numerous instances the administration has made dramatic gestures but failed to carry through. This tendency was manifest as early as the period following the White House anti-depression conferences held with representatives of big business and labor in November, 1929.

At the time it was hoped that out of the meetings would come a definite mechanism for economic planning and co-ordination. Then it was rumored that opposition to the idea was whispered on Capitol Hill because it allegedly smacked of super government, and the project was dropped cold.

Now the counter deflationary possibilities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, the Glass-Steagall act and the open market operations of the Federal Reserve system are in part nullified by the more or less deflationary character of the proposed tax bill.

As the economist of business week phrased it, "exaggerated anxiety about balancing the budget upset the mental balance of business and gave a setback to spring optimism during the past week."

The final agreement of the House of Representatives on a bill which was somewhat better than the worst threatened, did not check the wave of selling at the stock exchanges.

Apart from politics, near term optimism is checked by continued declines in the statistics of steel activity, power production and other fundamental barometers. As an offset, there was a gain in merchandise car loadings, indicating some pick-up in consumer buying.

The three leaders in the automobile industry are making a gallant attempt to buck the trend, and woo buying through dramatic improvement of product and further shading of price. The bargains in low-priced automobiles are without precedent.

HOME BARGAINS INCREASE

Bargains in homes due to the existing unfavorable business conditions are resulting in increased interest in real estate opportunities.

The Scott Mortgage Company located in the Frick Annex Building, points out that the depression, with all its terrors for some, is proving a blessing for others. As evidence of this the organization calls attention to its list of desirable modern homes located advantageously in Pittsburgh and surrounding suburbs.

Most of these homes are practically new and thoroughly modern in every detail. They are sold on the organization's new budget plan, enabling many families to become the owners of homes without the outlay experienced by many in providing for a large down payment.

The plan, worked out by this firm, permits the long time renter of houses or apartments to become his own landlord without more expense than his former rent for property equally as desirable and well located.

Many home owners are taking advantage of present prices for real estate, fully realizing that the existing prices are only temporary.

PLANT AREA IS 8½ ACRES

Pittsburgh has one of the most modern storage warehouses in the country to meet the requirements of the great number of industries engaged in manufacturing and distribution in this district.

In the Central Warehouse, which operates as a receiving point for merchandise received over the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, facilities are available for any type of storage from large auto trucks to canned goods. Insurance is given against damage from dust or dirt through the installation of a complete vacuum cleaning system and other special facilities.

The Central Warehouse has six storage floors each consisting of 60,000 square feet and divided into rooms of 10,000 square feet each. Two basements with a total of 26,000 additional square feet make a total of 386,000 square feet, equivalent to 8½ acres. The warehouse has seven five-ton hydraulic lifts capable of handling automobiles up to 25 feet in length.

GERMAN LINES GET HELP

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Substantial financial assistance to leading German passenger steamship lines is in process of completion, according to a cablegram received in the Commerce Department from Commercial Attache S. Lawrence Groves, Berlin.

According to the cable, the Hamburg American line and the North German Lloyd are to receive substantial loans and guarantees from the government. These are expected to take the form of an extension of the present 140,000,000 mark bank debt due April 1, 1932, to February 1, 1933, and a new credit of 70,000,000 marks under government guarantee for current needs. In addition, the credit of 10,000,000 Dutch florin will be extended.

Groves states that the above agreement practically is complete, but is subject to official confirmation.

Lumber Production Continues Small

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Lumber production for 687 leading hardwood and softwood lumber mills as reported to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association for the week ended March 26 was 113,457,000 feet. The preceding week 690 mills reported production 117,049,000 feet. Shipments exceeded production by 26 per cent, and others were 34 per cent above production, as against 34 and 20 per cent, respectively, the week before. Comparison by identical mill figures for the latest week with the equivalent period a year ago shows—for softwoods, 444 mills, production 48 per cent less, shipments 36 per cent less and orders 36 per cent less than the week in 1931; for hardwoods, 180 mills, production 49 per cent less, shipments 32 per cent less and orders 37 per cent under the volume for the week last year.

Institute to Oppose Gas Tax Increase

NEW YORK, April 4.—Representatives of the American Petroleum Institute will appear at a hearing before the Senate Committee of the District of Columbia at Washington, Friday, April 8, at 2:30 p. m., to oppose a proposal to increase the District's gasoline tax rate of four cents per gallon from two cents. The principal speakers for the Institute will be H. T. Klein, of the Texas Company, New York, and W. T. Holliday, of the Standard Oil Company, of Ohio, Cleveland.

BUSINESS

Pennsylvania Railroad Reports Profit of $1.49 A Share for Past Year

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RAVAGES of the business depression cut sharply into the gross income of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, but the lines were able to come through the year with a profit.

Operating expenses were reduced nearly $75,000,000, but this failed to compensate for a slump of over $122,000,000, or 21.5 per cent, in gross income.

Net income for year after deducting all charges was $19,545,194, which was equivalent to $1.49 a share on the stock of $50 par value. In 1930 net income was $68,952,717, or $5.29 a share, while in 1929 it reached $101,487,062, or $8.83 a share.

The company had to dip heavily into surplus to make dividend payments, which aggregated $42,674,591, or $3.25 a share, for the year. The dividend rate was cut to $2 annually, but even this reduced rate was not fully covered by earnings for 1931.

* * *

Dividend Policy of Future Is Uncertain

DIVIDENDS IN THE present year will be dependent on the volume of traffic and the prospects for recovery. In commenting on this, W. W. Atterbury, president, said in the annual report:

"Considering the conditions existing during the year 1931, net results, while not satisfactory, compare favorably with those attained by the railroads generally. The dividends were, therefore, charged to profit and loss. In view of the 1932 continued decline in earnings, it may be necessary to reduce or discontinue payment of quarterly dividends unless there is an improvement in traffic and earnings."

Gen. Atterbury commented in detail on the efforts being made by the railroad to add to its volume of both freight and passenger traffic by developing new types of service and by co-ordinating rail and highway transportation facilities.

The Pennsylvania has been one of the leaders in finding ways to meet new forms of competition. Efforts in this direction can be seen in the recent development of the plan to transport motor truck bodies by rail between important cities. In the passenger field it has been in evidence in the road's development of bus lines.

The announcement of a few days ago that 18-hour trains would be operated between New York and Chicago and that excess fares would be abolished on most other trains further reflects efforts to stimulate passenger business.

* * *

Ask Changes in Rail Legislation

IN SPEAKING OF THE general railroad situation, Gen. Atterbury said:

"The unsatisfactory conditions in the railroad industry, while accentuated by the present depression, are due to the fact that during periods of expansion, the railroads have not been permitted, because of inadequate rates, restrictive legislation and subsidized competition, to participate adequately, as do other industries, in the country's prosperity, all of which emphasizes the unsoundness of the existing methods of governmental regulation. Intelligent consideration of the railroad situation should result in such legislative and regulatory relief as will insure to the railroads economic equality of opportunity to engage profitably in any kind of transportation service that will meet the demands of the public."

The balance sheet showed current assets of $100,649,613 against current liabilities of $55,246,316. Cash amounted to $38,311,324.

STUDENTS GET PRACTICAL WORK

School of Accountancy To Assign Scholars to Get Commercial Experience

Fifty students of Pittsburgh School of Accountancy's day division have begun their practical work, in conformance to the school's regular spring schedule.

This is a feature of the well-known downtown institution, which in this manner gives its day division students an opportunity to put into actual operation the theory learned in a classroom.

As soon as a day school student has completed the major part of his freshman year, he has the option of being assigned to a business organization for practical experience, providing he has maintained scholastic eligibility. Sixty concerns in the Pittsburgh district co-operate in the development of this important phase of student training.

CREDIT ALLOWED

The student reports at regularly designated hours which must be as strictly observed as if he were on the payroll. Credit for satisfactory work is allowed and takes the place of some of the problems ordinarily solved in class.

During this trial period, which usually lasts at least one month and often longer, the student's conduct, demeanor, interest, and efficiency are carefully reviewed by officials of the school, in conference with the executive supervising the work of the student, and every possible effort is made to encourage the student, resulting in improvement along specific lines indicated by the executive's report. The result is more than satisfactory to all concerned, and often proves a good stepping stone from school to a regular position.

COMPANIES HELP

A partial list of the concerns which have co-operated with this unique plan includes these well-known local institutions: A. M. Byers Company, Colonial Trust Company, Fairfax Hotel, General Electric Supply Corporation, Gimbel Brothers, Joseph Horne Company, Liberty Dairy Products Company, Oil Well Supply Company, Oppenheim-Collins Company, Palace Credit Clothing Company, Pittsburgh Steel Company, Reliance Life Insurance Company, Rosenbaum Company, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, United Engineering and Foundry Company and Union Switch and Signal Company.

IMPROVED SPIRIT TO AID CORSAIRS

ONE FACTOR THAT may make the Pirates a surprise team this year, furnishing the driving power toward a better showing than some of the dopesters around the National League circuit concede to be possible, is not apparent on paper, but nevertheless is the most essential of all items contributing to the success of any ball club. It is spirit. There is every promise that the Bucs are going to be a vastly improved team in that respect. Whether due to the influence of their new leader, George Gibson; to a determination to extend themselves and accomplish something as a tribute to the memory of the late Barney Dreyfuss, or to resentment at being ranked among the trailers in the spring predictions, the fact remains that the Bucs have been aroused.

Paul Waner

The latest evidence of this is contained in a letter written to a local friend by Paul Waner. The senior half of baseball's best-known brother act assures his friend that the Pirates have been greatly underrated, and that in spite of a recent string of defeats in practice games on the coast they're a real ball club and will do a great deal better this year than some of the critics appear to expect.

COMING FROM THE older Waner, that carries a great deal more weight as bespeaking improved spirit on the club than if it had come from any other member of the Picaroon crew. For when you know Paul, you know that statements of that kind on his part are mighty rare. He isn't given to discussing baseball off the field. He plays it as a day's work and lets it go at that.

As a matter of fact, this is the first time he has been known to make such an expression since he joined the Pirates. And it means more, besides, because it was written in a personal letter to a friend, not to any official of the club. Such a letter to Pirate headquarters would have been set down as merely the old baloney. That's the kind of stuff players always write to the bosses.

WITH THE USUALLY unruffled rightfielder stirred up to that extent before the season opens, it isn't hard to conceive that the other members of the crew are also oozing an improved spirit in a determination to show that the club is better than it has been rated.

Such a spirit in Paul Waner alone would count for a lot, it might be remarked. No individual player on the roster can do more to bring about the improved showing he predicts for the club than Paul himself can make possible by sticking to business and making the winning of ball games his first interest.

ONE OF THE interesting features to be observed during the activities of the huge squad of almost 100 players out for the University of Pittsburgh's spring football practice, is that there will not have to be any marked departure from long established Blue and Gold playing customs as a result of the alterations that have been made in the code by the rule-makers. The changes in the rules have not affected the plans of Jock Sutherland for the 1932 campaign at Pitt, aside from necessitating a shift in the formation to be used when the Panthers are on the receiving end of the kickoff, and causing the linemen to be more careful in the use of their hands on defense. The flying block has been obsolete at Pitt for some years, Coach Sutherland preferring the more reliable shoulder block. Rip Collins, one of the best blockers at the university in many seasons, never left his feet in taking out a would-be tackler, and neither did his running mate, Jim MacMurdo.

Josh Williams

BUT ASK PITT'S first or second right halfback of last season, who teamed with Collins in getting rid of the opposing left tackle, and see if either has anything but praise for the Sioux City lad's method of clearing the way.

And the same goes for Joe Donchess, Lubs DiMeolo, Mike Getto, Andy Guarino, Hart Morris and Josh Williams, a few of the other great blockers who played under Sutherland during the last five years. All got the best of results and did much to help their team by the same system of blocking.

WILLIAMS, IN DISCUSSING the matter the other day, said that no halfback could want a better set of mates to clear the lane ahead of him that the Guarino and DiMeolo combination that was working during the season of 1928.

That combination permitted the Mars southpaw to outgain the speedy Toby Uansa that season while playing the blocking halfback position. And they, like Getto and the rest, never went off the ground until contact with the opposing player had been well established.

JACK DEMPSEY batted .704 in the knockout league during his preliminary comeback tour, which he started last August and concluded by outpointing Babe Hunt in four rounds at Detroit last Thursday night. In his swing around the country Dempsey met a total of 108 more or less capable opponents, mostly less, and 76 of them were flattened inside the limit or scared into taking an early way out. The former champion says he found the road campaign beneficial, but realizes—after grabbing off $350,000 of soft kale—that the best training results can be obtained only by going into seclusion. So he is heading for Los Angeles, and after a few weeks there will establish a training camp in the Nevada wilds to prepare for a proposed bout with Primo Carnera in Reno on July 2 or 4.

THE AUTO SPEED king of yesteryear, Barney Oldfield, declares he never was more serious in his life than when he announced recently, after watching Sir Malcolm Campbell set a new world record at Daytona Beach, that he intended to try a comeback.

Oldfield says he will make the attempt next February. "I can bring that record home to America, where it belongs," he added. Few men of 54 would care to undertake the job that Barney is going to tackle. By no means the easiest part of it will the first step, which is the finding of a backer willing to gamble $50,000 that the veteran driver can do the trick.

Barney Oldfield

THE MONEY, IF raised, will be used to build a car, embodying some of Oldfield's ideas. According to the former champion, it would have two engines of 16 cylinders each, or no fewer than 32 cylinders, developing about 1,400 horsepower, and would be a four-wheel-drive type. It would be shaped like an inverted canoe and be as nearly perfect in streamlining as possible. Oldfield says that age has little to do with the fitness of a driver for a record dash. "It isn't a job for some young firecracker," he remarks. "Years of experience in piloting fast cars is what is needed on that job. Campbell is 48 and I'll bet I feel younger than he does. Breaking that record won't be half as hard as it sounds. All you need is co-ordination of eye and nerve. I'd never think of going out to race those young fellows who flirt with death on a sharply banked track like Ascot, but put me on that Daytona straightaway next February, give me a good car, and I'll break the record. Sure, I want the dough. Daytona gave Campbell $4,000 for expenses, and the Englishman probably collected $50,000 more from accessory manufacturers when he got back home."

W.-J., GENEVA MENTORS CARD WORKOUTS

By JESS CARVER

Messrs. Elmer Layden, of Duquesne; Howard Harpster, of Geneva, and Hank Day, of Wash-Jeff, will roll up their sleeves today and put their respective varsity football squads through the first workouts of their spring practice sessions. All three coaches have issued the old call and will keep their charges hard at it for the next six weeks or so.

Elmer Layden

Coach Day, recently acquired by the Prexies from Washington High School, plans only to work with his centers and back this week, permitting the line candidates to have another week of rest. The Wash-Jeff drills, by the way, will be secret.

Up on the Bluff, Coach Layden faces no slouch of a task in getting his Dukes into shape. This year's spring work for the Red and Blue figures to be extremely rigorous. The Duke forces have been pretty well riddled by the loss of a host of veterans; next fall's schedule is brim full of tough assignments, and the boys have the memory of last fall's far-from-whoopee campaign to spur 'em on.

LAYDEN PLANS CLINIC

To wind up his spring sessions, Coach Elmer is planning to hold a football clinic, to which all college and high school mentors in the section will be invited, at which the changes in the rules will be explained and demonstrated.

Howard Harpster will seek diligently during the workouts at Geneva to find a tackle and a center, two Covenanter needs that promise to be crying ones by next fall. Geneva has lost its ace snapper-back, the rangy Slim Ransom. His shoes will be hard to fill, for the husky Slim was about as good a center as there was in the district last year.

COACHES SATISFIED

Generally speaking, the boys of this locality appear to be satisfied with the recommended change in the floor rules, which provides, or hopes to provide, a remedy for stalling. The National Association of Baseball Coaches, concluding its annual confab Saturday in Chicago, recommended that the team in possession of the ball must advance it beyond mid-court within a period of 10 second after coming into possession of the ball.

Doc Carlson, at Pitt; Johnny Lawther, of Westminster; Nate Lippe, of Aliquippa High; President Leo (Pants) McGlinchey, of the West Penn Officials' Association; Cal Bolster, a member of the advisory committee of officials, and other college and high school coaches have put the stamp of their approval, tentative at least, on the suggested change.

Carlson says he's heartily in favor of any change benefiting the game; McGlinchey says as how it is a definite step forward; Bolster thinks maybe the 10-second period is too short and Henry Blum says he has an open mind in the matter, making everything okey-okey.

SCHOOL NET CARD SET

MORRYS GAIN SEMI-FINAL

By TOM BIRKS

The Castle Shannon Morrys entered the semi-final round of the Referee's Charity Cup competition yesterday afternoon by defeating Gallatin in the feature soccer game of the day, 1 to 0, at South Park. A good crowd witnessed the clash.

The other game in the tourney found the Duquesne Republicans stopping the German Turners at Kennywood Park, the score being 3 to 0. The only league game of the day was flashed in the Keystone loop. Cecil having little trouble beating Bridgeville, 3 to 1. Heidelberg won over Primrose, 7-2.

The Morry-Gallatin tilt was a disappointing affair, neither club living up to its reputation. The Morry team again had to depend upon its stellar defense to pull through.

The forwards failed utterly. The only goal of the game came in the first half, Petrolini meeting a cross from the right wing and flashing the ball past Miller. From then until the end the teams just struggled through. The lineup:

MORRYS—1.		GALLATIN—0.
Benick	G	Miller
Peckovitch	F. B.	Ball
Van Jura	F. B.	Miller
Taylor	C. H.	Rose
Sickles	C. H.	Chesley
Kratoval	O. R.	Roman
McGowan	O. R.	Tuney
Barrett	I. R.	Harrison
Benick	I.	Chesney
Petrolini	I.	Ross
Zerwan	O. L.	Reno

Goal—Petrolini.
Referee—Evans.

Eleanor Holm Sets New Swim Record

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—Eleanor Holm, of the Women's Swimming Association, New York, bettered her own world's record for the 100-yard backstroke swim in winning the Metropolitan A. A. U. senior championship yesterday. Miss Holm was timed in 1:11 3-5, two-fifths of a second better than her listed mark of 1:12, set at Miami Beach in 1930.

In another feature event, Cornelia Gilson, 16-year-old diver, defeated Mrs. Helen Meany Balfe, 1928 Olympic springboard champion.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The National Association of Basketball Coaches believes it has solved the stalling problem by giving the team in possession of the ball 10 seconds to cross the floor toward its opponent's goal under penalty of the loss of the ball at the nearest sideline . . . It would seem to us that the proper way to cut out the stalling would be to make the defensive team (almost invariably the team that is behind in the score) go after the offensive, or stalling, team . . . You can't tie a score by standing still and waiting for the call of time any more than a boxer can take the crown from a champion by standing back and looking at him . . . If you want anything in this world you have to go out and fight for it . . . Now does anyone want us to suggest a way to break up the stalling that has the country at a financial standstill?

Looks like French toast for the opener, with Larry French all set to pitch the first game of the season for the Pirates. . . . It's good news that they're going to bring Jimmy Londos, the champion, here for the next wrestling show. . . . The game needs something like that to put it over here, and that's what the promoters want to do. . . . The fans are entitled to the best, and Jimmy is lots the best. . . . Al Sunseri was the sensation of the A.M.A. senior boxing championships at the Keystone Club over the week-end, and already the professional managers have their eyes on him, but he wants to make a bid for the national lightweight title and an Olympic games berth.

Ernie Sesto, Carnegie Tech's boxing coach, tells a funny story of his entry into the sport as an amateur. He went to school with Phil Goldstein, and was the best street fighter in the neighborhood. Goldstein being one of his choice victims. One day one of his cronies asked him why he didn't fight in the ring and Ernie said he never had given the matter any thought. "Why, Chappy Goldstein is the amateur champion, and you can lick him," was the reply. "What? Goldstein the champion—well, he won't be very long," shot back Sesto, and he repaired immediately to the Willows Club to train for the fray. . . . After some calisthenics he told Jack Metz, the coach, he wanted to put on the gloves and box. "Not tonight," Metz said. "You're not ready." But Sesto insisted and picked out Goldstein as the lad he'd like to tackle with the dukes. He was accomodated, and what happened? Phil simply slapped him all over the place. Ernie never saw so many gloves in such a short time, and he was cured. He learned then and there that there's a heap of difference between street fighting and battling in the ring. But he went on and became a good amateur in his own right.

Sammy Fuller, the Boston lightweight, got a draw out of his fight with Jack (Kid) Berg in New York's Madison Square Garden the other night despite the fact that he had been unable to do any real training for eight days, due to an injured nose . . . He floored Berg twice and outlasted him, and all along the stamina of Berg has been the marvel of ring fans . . . The pair are to be rematched, with the winner fighting Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight title this summer . . . There was a time when little Sammy was not a very pleasing fighter and had a tough time getting matches . . . Not so now, however . . . . He knocked out Ray Miller and Billy Wallace, two hard hitters, to get up to the Berg bout and put himself in line for the big money that lies ahead of him.

Training camp reports have it that the big league managers will do considerable experimenting in the matter of shifting players this season . . . The Cards will transform Rip Collins from a first base

NURMI FACES PRO CHARGE

BERLIN, April 4.—(INS.)—The Finnish Olympic Association may refuse to participate in the Olympiad at Los Angeles this summer if Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great distance runner, is refused permission to contest, it was stated here today.

The International Amateur Athletic Association, meeting behind closed doors, yesterday voted temporary suspension of Nurmi, pending an inquiry into his amateur status.

This action followed a demand by J. Sigfrid Edstroem, of Sweden, president of the federation. While the exact nature of Edstroem's "incriminating evidence" against Nurmi was not revealed, it was believed today in athletic circles here that the evidence against the 34-year-old international star is such that Finland will be obliged to declare him a professional.

The Finnish Athletic Association has been asked to rule on Nurmi's eligibility to compete at Los Angeles.

The famous long distance runner has won six Olympic championships and holds 11 world records.

The federation also is considering the case of Jules Ladoumegue, star middle distance runner who lost his amateur standing in France recently as the result of charges of professionalism. A report that Dr. Otto Peltzer, famous middle distance runner, also was in danger of being barred, was denied.

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—The Pirates began their long journey back eastward last night, leaving sunny California for Fort Worth, Tex., the first stop on the journey East. The Cubs are making the journey as far as Fort Worth with the Buccos, the teams traveling via a special train. They will bring their exhibition series to an end with two games in Texas.

The action of the Bucco in the games played of late certainly has pleased Manager Gibson. The team has developed plenty of power in the series with the Cubs and seems to be near tip-top form.

TEAM IN TRIM

The weather during the stay at Los Angeles was ideal throughout and was helpful in aiding the Pirates to get back in condition. The boys were not in the best of trim upon arriving here, the cold weather of Frisco having hampered them considerably. The pitching staff has been showing great form. Gibson has his corps of moundsmen in great shape and ready for the annual grind.

Charley Wood and Lloyd Waner did not accompany the squad on its journey to Fort Worth. Wood is rapidly recovering from his recent appendicitis operation in the Methodist Hospital here. Lloyd remained here with his wife, who is ill. He will accompany her back East and then join the Pirates in Memphis later in the week.

KREMER NURSING ARM

Remy Kremer is the only other Pirate on the ailing list and his pitching arm, which has been giving him trouble, has shown marked improvement in the past few days.

The Pirates will remain four days in Texas. The Cubs will furnish the opposition at Fort Worth tomorrow and at Dallas Wednesday with the Bucs meeting Fort Worth and Dallas the next two days in their respective cities.

Yesterday the Pirates made it three in a row over the Cubs, copping a 5-to-3 verdict. Bill Swift turned the Bruins back with six hits, one of which was a homer from the bat of Clyde Barton.

PIE HITS HARD

The Pirate attack was led by Pie Traynor, who had three safe blows, including a double. Tony Piet did his bit with a pair of doubles, had five assists and three putouts. The Buccos slugged their old teammate Burleigh Grimes, and his successor, Bill Warnecke, for 12 hits.

Nick Altrock

Baseball's Humorist

Says:

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 4.—Well, well, I guess prosperity for baseball is right around the corner instead of up a blind alley. Did you see where Brooklyn busted all records for opening day reservations?

Nick Altrock

That sure is a baseball town, even if the natives do use pop bottles for hand grenades. They regard it as an insult if a batter pries a single off Brooklyn pitcher and an umpire is a very poor risk if he calls 'em wrong in Flatbush. But, the fans do turn out.

By golly, it's good to know folks are still waiting in droves to see us play baseball. I'd begun to think the crooners, Greta Garbo and Smedley Butler were the only ones that could scare up an audience these days.

LEAFS, RANGERS SET FOR SERIES

CRACK SEXTETS TO CLASH FOR STANLEY CUP

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—Two of professional hockey's finest scoring machines, both ably backed by strong defenses and plenty of reserve power, come together this week to decide whether the New York Rangers or the Toronto Maple Leafs will hold the Stanley Cup. The trophy symbolizes the world professional championship.

The star-studded Rangers great line of Bill and Bun Cook and Frank Boucher and Toronto's "kid" forward wall, Charley Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey (Busher) Jackson. They are far from being the whole New York and Toronto teams, but their speed, passing and shooting were the principal factors in carrying them into the finals.

For the past two seasons they have been rivals for the title of the National Hockey League's best set of forwards.

The final playoffs open here tomorrow. The series is to go the best three out of five games. Due to the advent of the circus in Madison Square Garden, the Rangers can play only one game and have chosen Boston as their "home" for the second clash Thursday. Then the teams move to Toronto for the third game Saturday night and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, April 12 and 14.

The Rangers, who finished first in the National League's American division, won their place in the Stanley Cup finals by defeating the Montreal Canadiens, defending champions. The Leafs were second in the Canadian group and had to down the Chicago Blackhawks and the Montreal Maroons in two-game total-goal series to reach the finals.

TECUMSEHS OLYMPICS TIE

DETROIT, April 4.—(AP.)—Herbie Stuart, sensational goalie of the London Tecumsehs, turned back the driving Detroit Olympics here last night in a scoreless playoff match between the two international Hockey League teams.

Johnny Clark, rookie Olympic goalie, received a bad cut on the face shortly after the match opened when he was struck by the puck. After a half-hour delay, Emmett Vezina, regular Olympic goalie, who has been out with an eye injury, took his place.

A fist fight between McCabe, Olympic wingman, and Holway, Tecumseh defense ace, brought major penalties to both. In all, 12 penalties were called. The lineup:

Holway	D	Dye

LOCAL GOLFER SCORES ACE

Pittsburgh district golfers turned out yesterday in almost mid-summer force and the first hole in one of the season was recorded.

Playing the 127-yard No. 7 hole at the Pittsburgh Country Club, Charles M. Best, using a No. 5 iron, dropped the ball on the green and into the cup with a single smash. Best was playing in a foursome with C. C. Burgess, E. W. Wright and H. J. Beardsley.

The only courses in the district that were not open yesterday were the North and South park layouts. Most of the private clubs permitted the golfers to use the regular greens. The players at the Schenley municipal course continued to use the winter greens.

Shannopin reported a turnout of 100 yesterday, the Pittsburgh Field Club twice as many. Longue Vue the same number. Oakland had a mid-season crowd and the links at Fox Chapel, Edgewood, Highland, Chartiers Heights, Westmoreland, Thornburg, Stanton Heights and St. Clair were crowded.

Ranked second to Tilden is his one-time doubles partner, Vincent Richards, with Howard Kinsey, third, and Frank Hunter, fourth. All four are former Davis Cup players.

Bedford Whalers Win National Soccer Title

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—(AP.)—The Whalers, of New Bedford, Mass., defeated the Stix eleven, of St. Louis, 3 to 2, here yesterday to win the national championship in the United States Football Association title playoffs.

The Stix team, after holding the Whalers to a scoreless tie in the first period, crumbled in the final period. Eighteen minutes after the second half started, Gonsalves made a goal on a free kick. Two minutes later the Stix scored, but the Whalers went ahead again when Erbe, of the St. Louis team, accidentally pushed the ball over his own goal line after a shot by Nilsen. Gonsalves made the Whalers' third goal.

Yes, mates, it's true. The Crimson's rugby team was scheduled to play the French Sporting Club at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but due to a mixup in the arrangements the contest had to be staged at the field of a gas company in Astoria.

After trailing for 60 minutes, Harvard staged a spectacular rally in the final 10 minutes to win, 16 to 4.

The second annual duckpin tourney sponsored by the Greater Pittsburgh Bowling Alley Owners' Association will get under way Wednesday on the Eloa Recreation alleys, 2-9 Fifth avenue, when representative ladies' teams from Homestead, Ambridge, Vandergrift and other towns in the tri-state territory vie for honors.

The tournament alleys are being specially resurfaced and ideal conditions will prevail for the bowlers. It is expected that competition will be keen in each of the three divisions. Out-of-town teams are being given the preference as to bowling dates and bowlers from Wheeling, Bellaire, Youngstown, Sharon, Brownsville, Monessen, Vandergrift, Homestead, McKeesport, Greensburg as well as a host of local pinmen have filed their entries.

Entry blanks and further information may be had by calling Cy Engelmeir, tournament manager, at Atlantic 9355, or addressing Elba Recreation, 319 Fifth avenue.

CENTRAL LOOP CARD SPLIT

AKRON, April 4.—(AP.)—The reorganized Central Baseball League, embracing cities in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania, opens a split-season schedule of 140 games on May 4, league officials decided here last night.

Opening games will find Canton at Akron, Erie at Dayton and South Bend at Fort Wayne.

President Frederick W. Howell, of Dayton, said the second half of the split season will start July 4 with double headers scheduled for all teams.

At least three night games a week will be played in each city in the loop, with the exception of Erie.

Rules provide only 14 players and a bench manager to a team after May 20; require that five players must never before have played in organized baseball; limits salaries to $250 a month maximum and sets a monthly club budget of $2,000 as the limit.

Bill Wambsganss, who made the only triple play unassisted in a world series game, while playing for the Cleveland Indians against Brooklyn in 1920, will manage the Fort Wayne club. Erie will be handled by Ray Ryan. Howard E. (Duckey) Holmes, former Western League manager, will pilot the Dayton Aviators. Jesse Altenberg will manage South Bend. John J. McCloskey will guide the Akron team. Con Daley, of Michigan City, Ind., was chosen as chief umpire.

OLYMPIC TRIAL MEETS CUT

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—A change in regulations which makes it unnecessary for a candidate for the United States Olympic track and field team to compete in more than one sectional meet on his way to the semi-finals, provided he reaches a certain standard, has been announced by the track and field committee.

Under the new rule any community in the country may upon making application to the committee, conduct a preliminary tryout. Athletes placing first, second or third in these meets and equalling or surpassing an arbitrary standard, automatically qualify for the semi-final tryouts at Chicago and Long Beach July 8-9.

EXCEPTIONS NOTED

An exception was made, however, requiring all athletes in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia and Porto Rico to compete in the eastern sectional trials at Cambridge, Mass., June 16-17.

The purpose of the rule, explained Joseph T. England, of Baltimore, chairman of the committee, was to relieve the athlete or the club he represents of the expense of traveling to several meets—preliminary, district and sectional—to qualify for the semi-finals. Eleven of these sectional tryouts have been recommended to the general Olympic committee but the new rule makes it unnecessary for competitors to qualify through these meets alone.

STANDARDS SET

The arbitrary standards in the various events which semi-final qualifiers must reach were announced as follows:

200 meters, 21 3-5 seconds.
400 meters, 49 seconds.
800 meters, 1 minute 54 seconds.
1,500 meters, 4 minutes.
5,000 meters, steeplechase, 10 25.
5,000 meters, 15 20.
10,000 meters, 32 00.
High jump, 6 feet 3 inches.
Broad jump, 24 feet.
Pole vault, 11 feet 6 inches.
Hop, step and jump, 48 feet 6 inches.
Shotput, 45 feet.
Discus throw, 145 feet.
Javelin, 180 feet.
Hammer throw, 150 feet.
110-meter hurdles, 15 seconds.
400-meter hurdles, 53 seconds.

No standards were set for the marathon, 50,000-meter walk, decathlon, 400 meters relay or 1,600 meters relay.

OLYMPIC TRIAL MEETS CUT

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—A change in regulations which makes it unnecessary for a candidate for the United States Olympic track and field team to compete in more than one sectional meet on his way to the semi-finals, provided he reaches a certain standard, has been announced by the track and field committee.

Under the new rule any community in the country may upon making application to the committee, conduct a preliminary tryout. Athletes placing first, second or third in these meets and equalling or surpassing an arbitrary standard, automatically qualify for the semi-final tryouts at Chicago and Long Beach July 8-9.

EXCEPTIONS NOTED

An exception was made, however, requiring all athletes in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia and Porto Rico to compete in the eastern sectional trials at Cambridge, Mass., June 16-17.

The purpose of the rule, explained Joseph T. England, of Baltimore, chairman of the committee, was to relieve the athlete or the club he represents of the expense of traveling to several meets—preliminary, district and sectional—to qualify for the semi-finals. Eleven of these sectional tryouts have been recommended to the general Olympic committee but the new rule makes it unnecessary for competitors to qualify through these meets alone.

STANDARDS SET

The arbitrary standards in the various events which semi-final qualifiers must reach were announced as follows:

100 meters, 10 4-5 seconds.
200 meters, 21 3-5 seconds.
400 meters, 49 seconds.
800 meters, 1 minute 54 seconds.
1,500 meters, 4 minutes.
5,000 meters, steeplechase, 10 25.
5,000 meters, 15 20.
10,000 meters, 32 00.
High jump, 6 feet 3 inches.
Broad jump, 24 feet.
Pole vault, 11 feet 6 inches.
Hop, step and jump, 48 feet 6 inches.
Shotput, 45 feet.
Discus throw, 145 feet.
Javelin, 180 feet.
Hammer throw, 150 feet.
110-meter hurdles, 15 seconds.
400-meter hurdles, 53 seconds.

No standards were set for the marathon, 50,000-meter walk, decathlon, 400 meters relay or 1,600 meters relay.

Although Motor Square Garden is not available because of the General Motors show, the Pittsburgh district will have three professional boxing shows this week.

The parade gets under way Wednesday night when George Panka and Emmett Rocco, heavyweight rivals, meet in a return bout in the Moose Temple arena, downtown.

On Thursday, Promoter Jim McGirr, who drew a good house with his Willie Davies-Tony Marino show last week, comes back with a card headed by Marty Gornick, Whitaker lightweight, and Matty Oldach, of Erie.

The Kapphan Arena, which played to its best gate last Friday night, has another show scheduled this Friday, the principals of which have not yet been named.

Meanwhile sport fans of the community are looking forward to the reopening of the Garden next week, when a boxing show will be presented on Monday night and Jim Londos, world heavyweight champion, will top a wrestling card on Tuesday.

Four local boxers are in Boston to compete in the National A. A. U. junior championships tonight and tomorrow night. They are Frank Rosana, featherweight; Charley Crovatto, welterweight; Chuck Mullins, light-heavyweight, and Steve Stefek, middleweight. Bill Klaas, heavyweight, also was slated to make the trip, but injured his right hand in a bout in the A. M. A. senior championships at the Keystone Club Saturday night.

Between Rounds

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Ruby Fields, meet again in the six-round main bout of a show in Cleveland, Friday night.

Peter John and Andy Kosel have been signed for the opener at McKeesport Thursday night.

Bud Cusenzino has been selected as the opponent of Ray Mauch in the opening bout at the Motor Temple Wednesday night, thus completing the card.

OHIO BOWLERS SCORE HIGH

Two other Akron teams went into the money. Rathskellers shooting 2749 and Taylor-Swing Motors 2728. Pocatolos, with Chick Aston, former doubles champion, in its lineup, was well outside, as it hit but 2619.

A brace of Canton teams also will collect, the Lou and Cal outfit being in with a 2785, while the new Central Alleys combined for 2755. In the late afternoon several Youngstown lads landed in the money, the 1175 doubles total of D. Miller and C. McEvoy being best.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 4.—(AP.)—Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., won the singles championships of the Houston invitation tennis tournament yesterday, defeating Jake Hess, of Rice Institute, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2, thus serving notice he will be a likely candidate for Davis Cup team membership.

Teamed with Gilbert Hall, of New York, Canadian indoor champion, Allison lost in the doubles final to Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal., and George Lott, of Chicago, 5-7, 6-1, 7-9, 6-2, 7-5.

Vines and Lott won by directing their attack at Hall. Allison, former national intercollegiate singles champion, and John Van Ryn, now hold the national doubles title.

PHILLIPS GETS HOMER

KANSAS CITY, April 4.—(AP.)—Two pitchers were credited today with the Kansas City Blues 4 to 3 Sunday victory over the Detroit Tigers—the locals getting one point through Jake Miller, who hurled the last three innings, and the other through Phillips, former Pittsburgh catcher, who won the game with a homer in the fourth and a hit and run single in the eighth. Miller, of the Three-I League, shut out the Tigers for the last five innings, allowing only three hits.

WICHITA HITS HARD

WICHITA, Kan., April 4.—(AP.)—Three-run hits in eight walks and six errors in the first inning gave the Wichita Aviators a 10 to 8 victory over the Arkansas City Greenbacks, a semi-pro club, here yesterday afternoon. Wichita second baseman had a good day, scoring seven runs in eight times at bat.

Forbes

New Setback Precipitated By Congress.
Stocks Lowest in Decades.
Commodities Suffer.
Motor Campaign.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THANKS MAINLY to the crazy conduct of Congress, stocks in the New York Stock Exchange have lost two and a half billions in quoted value after having improved appreciably while Congress was acting co-operatively.

Mr. Forbes

Average prices are now the lowest in a decade.

The irresponsibles who rebelled against their own chosen leaders pounced upon "Wall street" in their desperate flopping and floundering to find substitutes for the mild but productive manufacturers' sales tax they ill-advisedly killed. If the Senate doesn't prevent the imposition of the heavy levies proposed on transactions in securities, the effect will not be confined to brokers.

The "know nothing" misrepresentatives in Congress haven't enough vision to see that they will punish, not only brokers and the myriads of employes thrown idle, but the fifteen million or more owners of securities located all over the land. The penalty would fall especially heavily upon the millions of individuals and families whose means do not permit of their buying and selling one hundred shares at a time.

This is simply another example of a tax which would defeat its own end, instead of yielding the fat millions glibly estimated by the shortsighted tax leviers, it would drastically reduce dealings, and thus hurt the income derived from other imposts on trading and render investments less readily marketable.

Other taxes agreed upon are regarded as grave handicaps on business, industry and employment.

AGAIN ACTING under the hallucination that they can soak the rich to any extreme their fancy suggests, the rebels gave the tax screw a vigorous twist on dividends. Unless the Senate undoes the inflationary harm done by the House, dividends, already dwindling heart breakingly, will sink near the vanishing point.

Our amateurish law-makers apparently imagine that dividends are received only by the rich; they evidently are unaware of the fact that two out of every three families in the country now own securities.

TO ADD STILL MORE to the alarm created through the financial world, Washington revived talk of handing over two more billions of cash to ex-service men. The delightfully childish proposal was voiced that the two thousand millions of dollars could be drawn out of the air without costing anybody anything—except the negligible cost of printing that amount of paper "money." Even thought President Hoover has announced emphatically that he would veto additional bonus distributions at this time, the financial and business world is apprehensive.

ALTOGTHER THE WEEK brought an unpleasant preponderance of unfavorable developments. In addition to the melting away of security values to the lowest levels yet witnessed, various commodities dropped to new minimum prices. Sentiment, which perked up after Congress sanctioned virtually important measures to strengthen our banking and monetary position, has again descended to the doldrums.

A HEROIC CAMPAIGN, unprecedented in extent and aggressiveness, is being launched by the nation's leading motor manufacturers to overcome sales lethargy. Unparalleled values are being offered.

Railroads are showing less unsatisfactory net earnings as a result of wage savings and higher rates.

The oil industry reports some progress. Steel producers had begun to express a modicum of optimism. In several other directions the extraordinary improvement in banking conditions plus easier money rates was beginning to have beneficial effect.

UNTIL CONGRESS ceases to create disturbance, however, it were folly to build hopes of immediate economic and employment improvement.

Cuban Decree Sets U. S. Share of Crops

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Of the 2,700,000 long tons of sugar, to which the sugar crop of Cuba was limited by a decree promulgated March 26, 1,056,420 long tons, plus last year's carryover, is designated for the United States, according to a cablegram received in the Department of Commerce Monday from Acting Commercial Attache Alfred Nufer, Havana. Europe was allotted 593,730 long tons plus one-fourth of the balance of the sugar segregated under the Chadbourne plan. Local consumption is expected to absorb 149,850 long tons, the cable stated. According to the decree, the crop is limited to 2,700,000 long tons plus amounts produced by mills in excess of allotted quotas up to midnight March 30.

TAX EXEMPTS LEAD BOND MARKET

Liberty 3½s in Demand As Congress Fights to Meet Federal Deficit

NEW YORK, April 4.—(AP.)—United States government issues again were the feature of the bond market during the past week, most of them recording higher prices daily, while corporate mortgages displayed an unmistakable declining trend.

Although firmness was maintained by all of the federals, the Liberty 3½s, wholly tax exempt, were the leading performers. These bonds reached a new high for the year under heavy accumulation. The general popularity of the Liberties and Treasuries was attributed to the fact that, while it was conceded the national budget would be balanced, unusually high taxes were a certainty.

CORPORATES LOWER

At the same time the tax situation in Congress, with growing confusion as to just what would bear the brunt of the new burdens, had an unsettling effect on various domestic loan categories. The result was that the rails, utilities and industrials started to tumble on Monday and were unable to rally to any appreciable extent during the remainder of the week. Averages for 20 principal rails and 20 utilities recorded new lows for the year.

The low-priced rails especially were subjected to press

Discouraged Liquidation in Rails Brings Out Old Certificates.

Railroad stocks with very few exceptions have been forced back sharply to new record low levels. Prospects for another cut in the Santa Fe dividend rate tomorrow, and indications from figures of individual roads which are available that carloadings will make poor reading, are factors which have influenced the break in the carrier list. But it is also evident that the tax drive against the security market in Congress in an effort to balance the budget, is having its effect. Discouraged liquidation has been apparent, several houses reporting the receipt of railroad stock certificates carrying dates as far back as 1910-1912.

The market apparently is honey-combed with stop-loss orders for several points under the low levels established in the last few days, and from the action of many stocks, particularly the rails, it is evident that bear traders provided the pressure which was necessary to touch off liquidation of that character. The market reflects principally discouragement in investment and banking circles arising from the congressional tax program saddling heavy imposts on trading activity and dividends. Rails have found the drive against continuance of certain phases of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation activities an added weight.

Reflecting the doubling of the levy as of the beginning of last month, stock transfer taxes collected by the State of New York for March totaled $1,898,800 compared with $1,052,704 in February and $2,072,389 received in March last year. The state transfer tax during March was at the new rate of $4 a hundred shares against the old rate of $2 a hundred. Trading during March aggregated about 31,500,000 shares, compared with 31,716,000 shares in the shorter month of February and with 65,658,000 shares in March last year.

Operations of Nash Motors Company have been maintained at encouraging levels since announcement a month ago if its new line of 1932 cars. March production totaled approximately 4,500 automobiles, and present demand indicates that April operations will at least equal that volume. The report for the quarter ended February 20, 1932, will be released following the directors' meeting in the near future, at which time action will be taken on the 50c quarterly dividend. Because of the strong cash position, Nash dividend payments in the past couple of years have not been entirely governed by earnings.

The public debt of the Treasury on March 31 stood at $18,506,720,307 as compared with $16,582,868,436 on March 31, 1931, an increase for the year of nearly $2,000,000,000. Treasury net balance at the end of March was $647,420,772 or about the same as at the end of December. This sum is expected to be helpful in holding down the probable increase in the public debt during the remainder of the fiscal year. The deficit in the Treasury may not be expected to run greater than $2,500,000,000, this figure estimated by Secretary Mills some time ago.

Butte and Superior Mining Company as of December 31, 1931, showed total assets of $3,355,924 against $6,590,465 at the close of 1930. Current assets amounted to $573,000 and current liabilities were $16,602. This compares with current assets of $617,323 and current liabilities of $33,257 at the end of 1930. Profit and loss deficit after charging off book value of mining claims and development was $4,348,680 against deficit of $1,156,675 at the end of 1930.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Make Lows — Local Stocks Lower

STOCK MARKET PRICES DIP TO NEW LOWS

Utilities and Rails Again Conspicuously Weak as Sales Volume Swells

NEW YORK, April 4—(AP.)—The stock market began the new week by digging still further into new low ground today.

Utilities and rails were again conspicuously weak, as selling swelled to substantiate volume in the earlier hours of trading. News of a character to influence the market was meager, but sharp declines in the bond market and a further slump in the price of stock exchange seats were presumably unsettling to stocks.

Among shares dropping 2 to more than 4 points to new lows for the bear cycle were Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake Corporation, Delaware and Hudson, American Water Works, Pacific Gas and Electric, Western Union, Eastman, National Biscuit, Loews, Macy and McKeesport. Other issues off 2 or more included American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit. United States Steel sagged more than a point and General Motors and General Electric eased fractionally to new bottom prices. Auburn again dropped several points.

Stock exchange seats which sold as high as $155,000 in March dropped to the lowest price since 1924 at $87,000. There was a tendency in several quarters to attribute the drop in seat prices to the proposed federal tax on stock transfers. Stock exchange seats at the lowest price since 1924, with prices of industrial shares around the levels of that year, would not seem unduly low if it were not for the large increase in the amount of listed stock since that time and the growth of common stock ownership. Another factor, of course, is that the number of seats has been increased by 25 per cent.

What little cheer could be found in Wall street was attributable largely to the early reports of the public attendance at the special automobile displays opened late week throughout the country as General Motors and the Ford Motor Company Automobile production as estimated for the latest week, shows a fair gain.

Weekly advices issued by some of the leading investment advisory services continued to caution security buyers to keep funds liquid pending further clarification of the federal taxation situation. In some quarters, too, it was suggested that first quarter earnings reports, to appear in large numbers during the next six weeks, would be disappointing. On the other hand, some observers felt that a convincing sign of improvement in business might bring a marked change in sentiment.

WHEAT MAKES FRESH GAINS

CHICAGO, April 4.—With unfavorable weather continuing in domestic winter wheat territory, grain prices made a fresh advance today after a wavering start. Liverpool reported general improvement of trans-Atlantic demand for wheat, despite larger quantities on ocean passage. Opening unchanged to ½ off, wheat later rose all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ lower and subsequently went upgrade.

Aggressive buying that lifted wheat values was largely due to statements from a leading authority that adverse weather southwest had been setting the wheat crop back daily as each successive dust storm lessened what little moisture was left in the soil. He said crop progress had been delayed to such an extent that it would require fully two weeks of growing weather before plants were tall enough to protect the soil from dust drifting. Other advices asserted there was no longer any doubt but that a wide area west and southwest had become desperately in need of moisture, and that considerable damage had already resulted.

Lily Lou's Worries Alleviated When Nahlman Returns Home From Europe

CHAPTER LII.

Lily Lou walked home, prepared her dinner and Maxine's. Canned spinach with a poached egg. Nourishing and cheap.

Her hands laid the table, broke the eggs into the boiling water, scooped them out with a serving spoon.

But she hardly saw them, hardly saw what she was doing. In her mind's eye she saw girls, girls with painted lips and clanking diamond bracelets, girls who had "got ahead."

Well . . . who was she to sneer at them, these others, who had had to find ways and means to live? She who might . . . who would soon . . .

No, she couldn't.

But if she didn't . . .

"Oh, gosh, spinach!" Maxine sighed, coming into the kitchen to sniff at the signs of food. "Well, never mind. I'll eat it. But let's have that can of plum pudding you were going to save for Thanksgiving. I could stand the spinach if I was sure of the dessert . . . well? You've been crying. It's a real tragedy all right, if you shed a tear. Tell me, has little Robin got whooping cough or did your voice leave you?"

ENCOURAGED BY MASTER

All that night Lily Lou tossed in her bed. In the morning she rose at 6, to go to Jamaica Park to see the bubchen, before work at the studio. That would help . . . would help her to decide. When she held him in her arms she had courage . . . courage for anything . . .

"He's growing out of all his clothes," Mrs. Jensen said, "and I don't know as I can keep him this winter or not, because I'm thinking of getting married again . . . yes ma'am, and while my husband ain't opposed to children none, not if they was his, that is, still he don't want a houseful of other people's—"

"I see," Lily Lou said.

Mrs. Jensen was making up her mind for her.

At rehearsal that night the chorus master singled her out to sing a difficult phrase alone.

Afterwards he said, "Very soon, my dear, very soon now we shall hear from you. This season the minor parts and next season . . . who knows? Take care of your throat, mind, no straining. Do not force that white tone. Remember that interpretation is the big thing. But I need not say that to a pupil of Gwin."

NAHLMAN ARRIVES

She told Gwin what he had said, hoping to propitiate him.

He smiled, and said nothing.

He was coaching her in two entire roles now, Traviata and Butterfly. She already knew Rosina in The Barber of Seville, and Gilda in Rigoletto, and Mignon and Manon would follow.

Could anyone expect her to give up a chance like that? Wasn't there some way? Some way . . . but she couldn't think of any . . .

"What IS the matter with you?" Maxine demanded, that night.

"Nothing. Just—finances."

"Fudge! With Gwin to back you, and Tony in line for the big money too, and Nahlman—"

"She's in Europe!"

"Landed today, on the Isle de France. Don't you read your papers?"

Lily Lou piled the unwashed dishes on the sink, grabbed her hat and coat.

"Hotel Ritz," she told the taxi man she hailed at the corner.

Nahlman might not be at the Ritz, of course. She might be out. She might not even consent to see her.

At the desk she asked Nahlman's room number, and was curtly refused the information.

INVITED TO ROOM

A young man in a creased tweed suit who had followed her to the desk turned away just as she did.

"Hard luck!" he said.

"Yes," she said, trying to answer his blithe smile.

She walked over to a chair to sit for a while. Perhaps some idea would come to her. Perhaps Madame Nahlman might come in, and see her. Or, she might go to a public telephone and call the hotel and ask for Susanne Coin!

She started up. The strange young man was right beside her. "What's the hunch?" he asked her.

"Why—I don't know just what you mean—"

"Aren't you a newspaper woman?"

"Oh my goodness, no!"

He grinned. "My mistake. Thought you were too pretty for it. I had a hunch myself. Thought I might let you in on it."

She dismissed him, smiling, wishing him luck. After a while he strolled over toward the elevators, and Lily Lou gathered courage to go to the public telephone, and ask for Susanne Coin.

"It's Lily Lou! Lily Lou Lansing! I just heard you got in on the Isle de France, I wonder if Madame—"

"Why, Miss Lansing, how glad I am to hear of you . . . just a moment, Madame heard me call your name. Where are you? Downstairs? Oh, Madame says, come up at once!"

ASKED ON TOUR

Madame Nahlman embraced her, cried over her. "My dear, how I have missed you! Let me look at you. The same Lily! Oh, I have so much to tell you. Sit down. Such a hard summer. No, sit close to me—now—we can talk—"

So different from the last, cool meeting.

Lily Lou wanted to ask about Mr. Rodney Horton-Hale, but thought better of it. Presently Nahlman spoke of him herself. "I left him in Cannes," she said. "How he got back to that dear old England I don't know and I don't care. Not that it was really Rodney's fault. You know how women pursued him. There was a cheap blonde from Chicago that wanted him. He didn't have a chance with her, but I had enough. To much. Well—"

Once Lily Lou would have fled in dismay from the prima donna's lurid tale and Elizabethan English, but she listened now, smiling a little . . .

She had come to ask for a loan, but it was never asked for. Mme. Nahlman said, "You must come with me on my concert tour. I go as far as St. Louis. Wonderful bookings. Really quite the best publicity and advance sales . . . You will accompany me. Seline is the violinist—"

"I—accompany you!! But you—they—wouldn't be satisfied!"

"Not a word. It is settled. My mind is made up—just like that!"

SERVES A PURPOSE

It was arranged. Afterward Lily Lou found out that it was the trick she had discovered last summer, of filling in the "hole" in Nahlman's voice—that empty space in the middle register.

"You are certainly not a great pianist," Tony told her, "but you are an accurate and an intelligent one, with more sympathy than a bigger artist would have. So do not thank her too much. You serve her purpose."

"And she serves mine, Tony. I don't know what I'd have done if this hadn't come along."

"You would not starve," he told her easily.

But he didn't know. Would she have gone to Gwin if Nahlman had not turned up? She never could be sure. Probably not. Probably, at the last moment the old Puritan upbringing would have triumphed . . . But she could never be sure. She had been desperate . . . Never in the years that followed did Lily Lou Lansing ever highhat a "fallen sister."

Strange how little Gwin ever said.

"I'm going on concert tour with Nahlman for 14 weeks," she told him. "I'm sorry—you'll have to get another accompanist."

"Is that the only reason you are sorry?"

Lily Lou looked down at her feet. She knew so well what Gwin was thinking. "I'll be sorry to lose my lessons with you. I know how much I owe you, how much you've taught me . . ."

There was no further opportunity to talk then, another pupil came in.

When later, she prepared to go, he said, "After the concert tour, Lily Lou, I'll help you if you ever need coaching on a role. But there is nothing more I can teach you about singing. Things might have been different. But since you're going to Nahlman—"

He seemed, for the moment, almost as old as his prematurely gray hair. An old, defeated man. Could he have cared for her, really? She didn't know—would never know. They shook hands.

"Goodbye, Dwight."

"Goodbye, Lily Lou."

It wasn't really goodbye. They would meet again in the morning. But it was a farewell, for all that. It was the last sign of affection or feeling he was ever to show for her.

When 10 days later, she left for Philadelphia with Madame Nahlman, after establishing the baby and Mrs. Jensen's aunt, Mrs. Nilstrom, with the bubchen in Maxine's flat, she was beginning another era.

Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. In Vienna Lily Lou becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera. She sings well and wins much praise. Lily Lou and her baby are sent back to New York by Nahlman. Maxine asks that they live with her. Lily Lou's mother dies. After borrowing train fare, Lily Lou gets home in time to attend the funeral. Heart of a Wife

Name of Lee Chow Recalls Events of Another Day

As that low wail of Lee Chow! Lee Chow! Lee Chow! came from the lips of the wounded Chinese messenger who had just undergone an emergency operation in our library, I started violently and without my own volition, my eyes flew to Dicky's face. For I know, that always my husband associates the name of Lee Chow, the high-born Chinese, with Hugh Grantland, whose close friend he was.

Dicky had caught the name. I saw that by the forbidding frown which appeared as if instinctively upon his face, and as that low wailing voice went on and on, my mind went back along the trail climaxed by his dastardly attempt at murder which I feared would succeed in spite of the efforts of the surgeon.

RECALLS OLD EVENTS

I remembered the first time I had seen Lee Chow when he appeared as from nowhere at a beach picnic upon the sands near Bridgehampton and had maneuvered the opportunity to tell me that he was the servant of Hugh Grandland, the most faithful friend, except Lillian, that I ever had had. He had come to me for aid, this high-born Chinese, who for years had masqueraded as Hugh's servant—because he had seen my name upon the postal cards which Hugh had sent me whenever he changed his address, in his roving, adventurous travels. Never had this faithful friend written me a letter because he knew the intense, consuming jealousy which Dickey cherished toward him. But, having told me years before that he would always keep me informed as to his whereabouts, so that I might be able to summon him if I needed him, he had taken the most innocuous method possible and from each new address sent me a picture postal card bearing only his address and his initials. He only broke the rule when he made a change so suddenly that there was no time for a card to reach me before he moved, then he invariably sent me a cable inscribed as were the postals.

A memorable experience had followed that first encounter with Lee Chow, who had appealed to me because he had lost all trace of his master. Still fresh in my memory was the trail which he, Lillian and I had followed—with Dicky's consent, because Lillian had shamed him by the recollection of Hugh's memorable service to us both in rescuing Junior from kidnapers. It was a trail which led into the hills of western New York and finally brought us to the man we sought. We found him mentally broken, physically ill, and the victim of a plot on the part of his stepmother and her son to deprive him of his vast inheritance. It was a service which I was so thankful to have been able to render because of the debt of gratitude which I owed him for my boy, but it was one which he had amply repaid afterward by his rescue of Mary, Dicky's niece, from the hands of Jack Leslie.

For months now, ever since the reappearance of Jack Leslie in Mary's life and the brutal attack upon Noel which he had instigated, there had been the terrible little fear at my heart that Hugh was dead, for otherwise I did not see how Jack Leslie had dared to return to the United States.

FEAR IS SHARED

I knew that Lillian shared my fear that Hugh was dead and the coming of the Chinese messenger with the demand for Marion's lock box with its secret compartment had strengthened that belief. For the messenger was a man who formerly had been a henchman of Lee Chow's. He, himself, had told me that he was compelled to do the bidding of the men who had sent him, who were enemies of Lee Chow because Lee Chow had gone away and it was "not good to say his name," or the name of Hugh Grantland.

His terror at my refusal to give him the box which he had demanded was something pitiful and he had said that it would be "Velly bad for me, velly bad for you" when he had departed.

But the letter from Lee Chow which I had found pinned to the cushion of my car and the visit of the murderous Chinese with his demand for the return of the letter had led Lillian and me to the belief that the messenger had not returned to the men of whom he was so afraid and that in some way he had received information warranting his belief that a letter from him could be given by me to Lee Chow.

Stadtfeld's Campaign

His Candidacy Should Be Supported by All Opposed to Boss Vare's Domination.

Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, is no politician, yet he must have won many thousands of votes by his campaign speeches of the past week. The people love a fighter who refuses to truckle to the political bosses, and Judge Stadtfeld is just such a man.

It becomes more and more apparent that a vote for Judge Stadtfeld will be a vote against Boss Vare, of Philadelphia. It was Vare who dictated the organization slate of candidates—a slate from which Judge Stadtfeld's name is missing, notwithstanding that he is in every respect fitted for the Superior bench and deserves a full term.

Ralph E. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, Independent candidate for Auditor General, is another threat to the Vare slate. He is certain to receive a handsome vote in his home county, and should make a good showing elsewhere, too.

Jobs for Thousands

Construction of the Subway and Town Hall Would Go Far Towards Relieving Unemployment.

It has been estimated, after careful study of the Town Hall project, that from the breaking of ground until the opening of the completed building it would furnish jobs for about 5,000 workmen.

A structure of its type would require more labor than edifices of other types; there would be less need for the employment of labor-saving machines and methods. Moreover, work could be carried on continuously.

The Town Hall would furnish jobs for carpenters, masons, ironworkers, painters, plumbers and electricians, as well as unskilled laborers. Other workmen would be furnished jobs in the preparation and manufacture of the steel, brick, concrete, glass, tile and other building materials used.

The materials and workers could all be obtained in Allegheny County.

The Town Hall is a project ideally suited for unemployment relief.

The subway and wharf improvements would also furnish jobs for many unemployed men. Councilman John S. Herron's estimate that 1,000 men could be put to work on them is about the lowest that anyone has made.

The bonds have been authorized for both the Town Hall and the subway. In the case of the latter taxation will not have to be resorted to for the payment either of interest or sinking fund charges for at least three years.

There are such excellent reasons for proceeding at once with these projects that obstructionists will lay themselves open to the suspicion of being indifferent to the people's welfare.

Invoking 'Gag' Rule To Aid a Vicious Bill

Instead of going to the relief of eight million Americans who are unemployed and five million more who are on part-time work, the leadership of the national House of Representatives goes ten thousand miles across the Pacific for its next legislative task.

By means of the most drastic "gag" rule that the House can apply, its leadership will attempt this week to jam through, without adequate debate, the bill recently reported by its committee on insular affairs for Philippine independence in 1940.

Apparently the House leaders realize that the only chance of enacting into law this hypocritical and dishonest proposal is by means of "gag" rule which will limit debate to several hours at the most and fifty minutes at the least.

The report from the House Committee on Insular Affairs, in which the passage of this measure is recommended, instead of enlightening the Congress, insults its intelligence.

This report contains a collection of the most radical assertions by Filipino politicians on controversial questions that have arisen between them and the American people in the last thirty-three years.

To these prevarications are added statements by the committee which give full credence to the argument of every lobbyist for all the special interests that are the chief beneficiaries of this utterly vicious legislative proposal.

For example, this bill proposes to limit for a period the importation of sugar into this country to an amount each year in excess of the amount which has been imported in any year since the United States acquired the Philippines.

This is done upon the false pretense that such a limitation will aid the American producer of sugar.

Every American producer of sugar knows that the total amount of sugar exported from the Philippines to the United States is less than one-half of the amount of Cuban sugar constantly in storage, either here or in Cuba, and ready to be dumped on the American market.

This bill proposes to limit the free importation of cocoanut oil from the Philippines into this country to an amount in excess per annum of what has ever come in free in any year up to date.

This limitation is fixed upon the false pretense that it will aid the American farmer.

What a quack remedy this will provide for his ills every American farmer realizes when he recalls that this bill does not touch the unlimited importation from all producing countries free of duty of copra, from which the cocoanut oil is made.

The third Philippine product whose importation into this country is limited by this bill is the manufactured product—cordage.

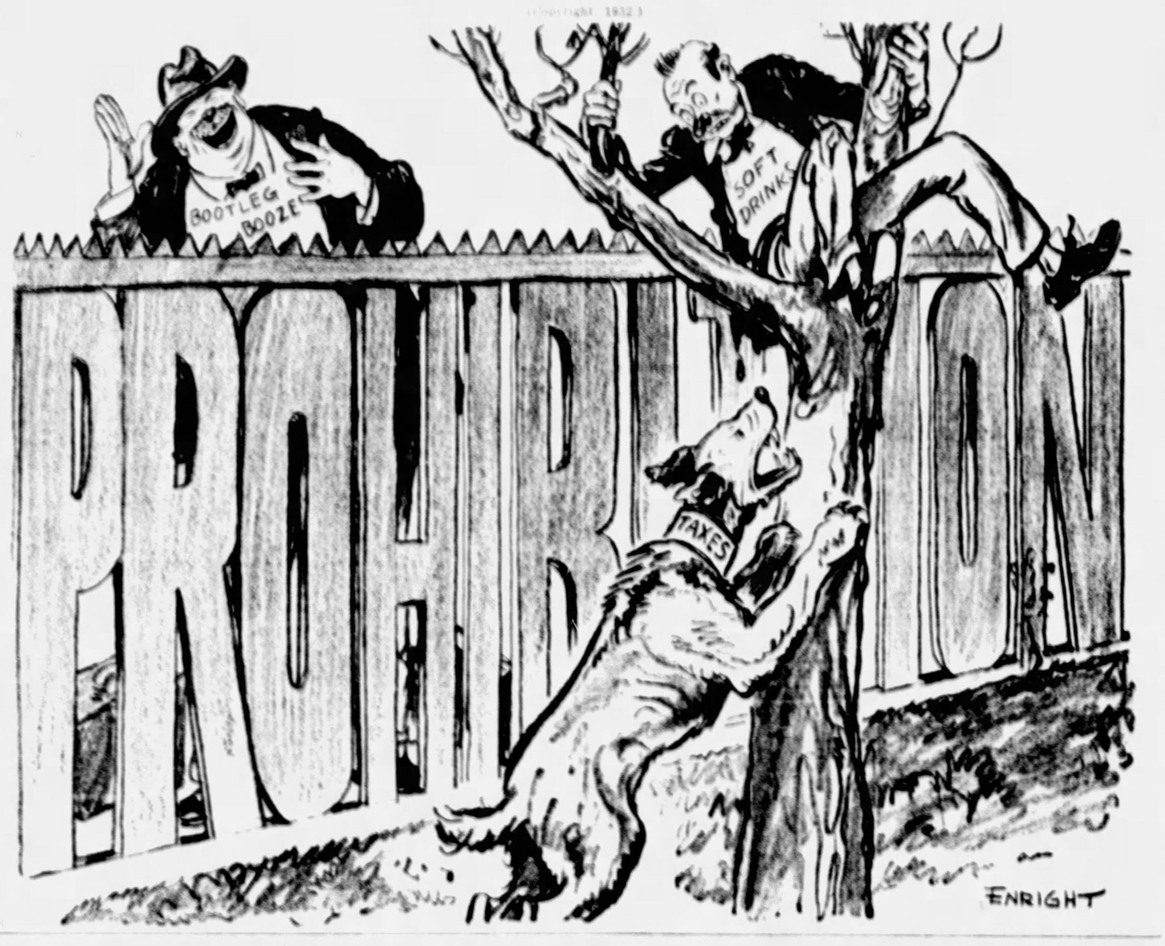
Of course the American farmer's only interest in cordage, of which he is the principal consumer, is to get it as cheaply as possible.

But the bill reported to the House by its Insular Affairs Committee fixes the limits for cordage at three millions pounds per annum, although the actual imports from Philippine cordage amounted to 7,513,000 pounds in 1930 and 5,380,000 in 1931.

These and other equally dishonest provisions of this indefensible measure will doubtless be concealed from the membership of the House by the "gag" rule under which its leaders will try to jam this bill through.

Every Senator in Congress owes it to the honor of his state and the nation to expose every joker in this joker-ridden measure and to drag into the light the provisions put in this bill at the behest of of the lobbyists of the special interests in whose behalf the bill appears to have been drawn.

It Is to Laugh



Marry-Go-Round

Alimoniacs

Beware the grass-widow! I mean the YOUNG grass-widow, with plenty of time and money on her hands.

* * *

Alimony-seekers (I call them "alimoniacs") are spoiling the marriage market for all the nice marrying girls these days, declares May Christie, popular columnist.

* * *

Men says Miss Christie are AFRAID to marry, since wedlock leads but to the divorce court and the Alimony Club. Too many girls appear to regard marriage as merely the little interval between the wedding and the divorce.

Grass-widows, with plenty of "unearned increment" (alimony pay-dirt) and nothing to do but spend their days in the beauty parlors and their evenings dancing, vamping and giving cocktail parties are a menace to matrimony.

* * *

A man is easily frightened; and he is naturally wary of a proposition which looks like nothing but a honeymoon trip to Bermuda or Niagara Falls, followed by a life-sentence to alimony or JAIL.

* * *

Here's a bouquet to that new law refusing alimony to all able-bodied, childless women under 25—proposed by some wise solon, and I hope passed by this time.

* * *

No humane person would deny alimony to a tired, suffering, middle-aged wife, whose silly old husband has been seized with a flapper complex or a stepping complex in his 40s or 50s and wants to junk her for a brand new model.

But these husky, beautiful, youngish, childless women, who are living in luxurious bachelorette apartments on ONE man's hard-earned money, while they give their smiles, their time, their dances and their kisses to OTHER men and snatch all the eligibles from the girls, are just barnacles on the Ship of State, who should be scraped off.

* * *

Life is being made altogether too easy, comfortable and irresponsible for the unattached male—and it is the alimoniac who is spoiling him. Make a bachelor's life one long sweet love-song—and he'll never exchange it for a lullaby. Why should he exchange "Just a little kiss, a little love" for a quiet old tune like "Home, Sweet Home"?

* * *

With plenty of attractive women on the telephone-list, no ties or financial responsibilities, plenty of free dinner-parties, cocktails and free kisses, why should a bachelor sign on the dotted line?

* * *

No wonder modern men fight marriage, and can't be dragged to the altar, until or unless they fall so head-over-heels in love that they can't see where they are going.

* * *

If your Boy Friend never says "Will you?—cherchez the alimoniac!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 4.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to promenade coming upon Lorraine Manville Gould wearing the perkiest bonnet ever I saw and told her so. Home, reading an hilarious limerick from Lee Otwell also a letter from my school fellow, Harry Maxon, whom I hold in high esteem.

Working and, in the late afternoon with my wife to the Dudley Field Malones to see their sturdy young son and wore my new boldly striped trousers, very fetching withal. Among notable guests were Sir Hubert and Lady Wilkins, Mayor Walker, Police Commissioner Mulrooney, Miss Margaret Wilson and others.

Dining with Leon and Natalie Gordon at del Pezzio's and gorged on spaghetti, as did the Frank Masons, Karl K. Kitchen, Hattie Belle Johnston, Mrs. Davis and Lucy Virginia Long. So spinning small town fables and singing a tournament of old psalters until 1 of the clock.

Sauntering in the path of a stunning, lithesome lady along the avenue it was interesting to watch her unabashed halt before a window mirror. There she moistened a tiny brush from a vanity, tilted her lashes, drew a crayon across her lips and touched cheeks with a chamois of powder. It was engagingly frank and natural. At the next corner she met a gentleman I recognized as her husband. Their martial happiness is one of the deservedly reverential legends, lasting 18 years. I wonder if her cosmetic gestures might not be a minor reason for such happiness?

* * *

They were discussing stinging retorts. Someone recalled Ambrose Bierce's reply to a caustic critique by the eminent Brander Matthews. He said: "Prof. Matthews is nothing if not right and Prof. Matthews is not right." Another was reminded of Herbert Spencer's remark to a whippersnapper who trounced him at billiards. Said he: "Young man, to play billiards as I do is the earmark of a gentleman; to play as you do is evidence of a misspent life."

* * *

Personal nomination for the non plus ultra in stage nonchalance—Frank Fay.

That turbulent block on West Forty-seventh street between Broadway and Sixth avenue is known to jobless performers as Dream alley. Here those who clutched at fame and missed are eddied to curbs and steps of dim lit hotels, a backwash of hopefuls rubbed to a brazen polish by Broadway's eternal grind. And always looking for the "break." Oddly, they do not try to lighten despair with drink. Banded together in a common woe, they have that brand of loyalty often found only among troupers.

* * *

Theatrical hotels are curtailing their usual generosity to the profesh. In prosperous times they were friendly fanes for the lay-off or performer "at liberty." Credit was elastic until engagements came. Today there's too much insecurity in the amusement world. Patrons must pay for laundry, meals and incidentals upon receipt or find keyholes plugged. In some inns l'additione is presented every other day.

* * *

It occurs to be in a quick flash that ladies in general look exactly alike in those long white ermine wraps—the exception being Irene Bordoni.

* * *

Times Square will miss William J. Guard, who with blackthorn cane, stump of cigar and flowing bow tie was a high light in the parade so many years. As the opera's publicity director he added a gentle dignity to a so-often brash calling. Compared to the rowdy Broadway exploitation, his brilliant screeds had the benignancy of an acolyte distributing holy candles. Not rich, he was reputedly the Olidiah Jedudah, a nom de fantasie, under whose pleasant anonymity he disbursed gifts to struggling artists.

* * *

Somewhere amid the confusing debris of my desk is a hastily penciled scrawl from Bill Guard scribbled a few weeks before his passing. It ran: "Some evening when out swilling at the taverns drop in for a potation and a swap or so of yarns—Bill."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

That song—"River Keep Away From Mah Door"—driving through the flood lands in Arkansas this winter, I kept thinking of it.

Road like a black ribbon, slipping on and on, smooth as a snake, with the big flood waters whispering on either side.

Big, brown flood waters, rising slow as slow, mumbling, fumbling, with the dirt giving way and the grass roots giving way and the flood waters gulping them down.

Far as you could see — flood water. Swirling slow and sulky, 6 feet, 10 feet deep, far back in the forests of swamp oak and scrub pine, with the honeysuckle vines floating in tangled wreaths—oozing out and out over the cotton fields—

Here and there a little cabin standing on a rise above the floor—little clay-chinked slab cabins, with the plank door askew and the firelight slanting across the floor and a mess of babies, chickens, dogs and hogs squabbling on the steps. And some grown-up slouching in the doorway, looking out with worried eyes at the flood waters crawling nearer, nearer—

Praying, maybe, "River, keep away from mah door!"

Frightened cabin folk down in the flood country praying that.

All the rest of us praying that, too. Standing in our narrow doorways, hugging our snug fireplaces crying:

"River, keep away from my door!"

Thinking and feeling are a tiresome, often a painful business. The body rebels against that business. It wants to do the things that are easy to do—things it can do without planning, without making decisions. It wants to lie in the sun, and eat, and sleep, and fight, and make love. All of these things can be done with little thought or feeling, as an animal does them. And we humans are still nine-tenths brute.

Why do you have blah words? That's why.

Because the mental side of you, still so new at its job, goes on a strike. Temporarily you revert to your stupid, happy, lazy jungle self.

But is there no cure for that?

Probably not, within the next million or so years.

And why should there be a cure?

Why this frantic desire to "think and feel all the time"—this constant, hysterical search for a thrill?

"That's because we want to live in high! We refuse to be dead ones. We moderns are live wires."

Piffle! We moderns are nothing of the sort. We merely have the nervous jitters; and most of our so-called thoughts and feelings are as senseless and aimless as a monkey's chatter.

Our trouble is not that we can't use our brains all the time, but that we seldom use them ANY OF THE TIME!

Don't rebel because there are times when you can't think or feel. That is natural. It is the penalty of being that new creature, a human being.

Then they all would have had to move on into a new home, away from the vermin and the sickness and the filth. They would have had to begin life all over again, taking new chances, finding new youth.

Floods are bad to look at but good to have, many a time.

Suppose we should let the flood come into our lives, partner?

Let experience come pouring in, washing us out of our smugness, our laziness, our conceit and fear; floating us away into new adventures, new chances; breaking our hearts, maybe, but giving us new hearts in their place?

What a great thing that would be!

But we won't let it; not if we can help it!

Even the thought of beginning all over again, facing fresh difficulties, tackling new problems, losing the places and the people that we love, makes us huddle close and cry:

"RIVER, KEEP AWAY FROM MY DOOR!"

And then we wonder why "we never get anywhere."

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Do you keep the members of your family in a turmoil by your desire to have everything done in a hurry?

As soon as you arrive, dinner must be served, hot and at once.

You eat hurriedly and complain because other members of the family do not finish as quickly as you do.

If you are planning to take a ride, you ask those who are to accompany you to be ready as soon as possible.

When you take the wheel, you are impatient to get into high speed and are angry when anyone blocks your way.

During the entire drive you are out of sorts because of hindrances you encounter, to your way of driving.

In anger you take your chance around and in front of other cars.

Those who drive with you hold their breaths and become so nervous that their pleasure is spoiled because you are reckless.

You don't see anything along the way and the family are so uneasy that they don't either.

After reaching no where in particular you return in the mood you started and your automobile companions have had no pleasure. Neither have you.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

You Who Have Prayed

You who have prayed until your life becomes
A shining chalice for the wine of prayer;
You who have prayed while Earth's insistent drums
Flung futile fury on the cringing air;
To you alone the fluent years reveal
Some measure of the peace which passion bears;
On you alone are laid the Hands that heal;
You hear the Voice that speaks beyond the stars.

You are the Beggar with the Yellow Bowl;
You are the Penitent on bleeding feet,
The Saint who bargains for another's soul,
The Sinner who has learned that tears are sweet.
I search you as I pass, and I divine
The secret in your eyes you read in mine!

Garner Triumphs For His Country

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In one of the most dramatic and magnificent appeals in the annals of Congress, Speaker John N. Garner has rendered an incalculable service to his country; and in the timing of this appeal he has shown himself master of the psychology of leadership. There have been few incidents we can recall in Congressional or parliamentary history that have so thrilled a people. These memorable events depend on the atmosphere, the setting. There is always an interest when a Speaker of the House goes into the arena of debate, for the House almost always likes its Speakers.

We recall the scene when Champ Clark descended from the rostrum to close the debate on the Underwood Tariff Act and began with the lines:

"This is the day I long have sought,
And mourned because I found it not."

But that speech was merely a gesture of triumph, delivered before an hilarious House—a party speech of the militant and jubilant sort well fitted to that occasion. But the occasion was not one deeply to touch the heart and imagination. When John N. Garner took the floor last week there was a feeling that the welfare of his country, the very fabric of American society, was involved in his success or failure.

No statesman, any place or at any time, has stepped into the breach under more critical conditions. And disregarding the carping criticism of his enemies, he had waited patiently for the right moment. And then he met it in the right way. There was infinite art in the very simplicity of his performance.

* * *

Jack Garner Is Real

The man who saved the day for common sense and manifest duty is a personality. His white hair, long and bushy white eyebrows, ruddy complexion, blue-grey eyes, would make him conspicuous as an individual in any crowd. Instinctively, he has a friendly, kindly outlook on people and things. His smile, with which the House is so familiar, is a golden glow. It not only lights a room but warms a visitor. His voice and manner have all the heartiness of the West and South.

But no student of faces will fail to note the keen intelligence of those blue-grey eyes or to realize that they are the eyes of a fighter, capable of the reflections of cold steel. No pretense. No pose. No illusions, here. Just a two-fisted, upstanding human being who has grown very wise in the many years he has dealt with men and politics. The men of the press gallery, incomparable in detecting the counterfeit, long ago concluded that Jack Garner is real.

* * *

Every Man Had His Say

Real leadership knows the virtue of patience and of timeliness. For months the House has moved forward with scarcely a hitch; and then, with the tax bill to meet the Hoover deficit of more than a billion thrown into the arena, and the realization of the nation's desperate plight, the House went wild. Bitter things were said. Questionable things were done. And every man had his say—because Garner is against the gag rule. He favored the bill submitted by the Ways and Means Committee providing a manufacturers tax, albeit theoretically opposed to the sales tax principle.

He favored it because he knew the one essential thing is the balancing of the budget, and he agreed with the committee that this was the simplest way. And while the storm raged in the House he bided his time, while the critics fumed, and his enemies jeered at the "lack of leadership." No human being could have led that House in any other direction than that of its choice.

But passion grows by what it feeds on, and impossible and intolerable things were said that indicated a possible failure to balance the budget; and the outside world was shocked and shaken, and the market became panicky, and the dollar was being sold by the foreigner!

No Evidence of The "Big Stick"

As he asked recognition of the chair, and the House rose in tribute on both sides the chamber, it was not the smiling Garner that faced it. It was a serious man, but there was no evidence of the "big stick." There was emotion in his voice and feeling in his manner—and no "oratory" in his method. We have been surfeited with that. His was an appeal, straight from the mind and heart, in the conversational method of a conference among friends. He told a simple story. He put the immediate past behind him with a calm recital. He unfolded a tragic tale of the nation's desperate needs. He made one of the strongest, manliest appeals for a common determination to balance the budget for the country's good that any human being could have made.

Thus he told of the reaction to the impression given that the budget would not be balanced:

"We found the foreigner selling the dollar. We found our exchange going down more than it has at any time in the last 12 years. We found that followed by a sharp reduction in the United States securities."

And what did that mean?

"It simply means that the $1,800,000,000 of money belonging to foreigners who have come to us with the idea that this flag not only protected the person but protected property, and who put their credits in the banks of our country because they thought that the safest place on the face of the earth, have transferred their gold to foreign vaults."

And the ultimate result to us in America?

"As sure as I stand in the well of this House, I believe with all my soul that if this Congress today should decline to levy a tax bill there would not be a bank in existence in the United States in 60 days that could meet its deposits."

And then he summoned the members of the House to stand in the eyes of the world and be counted as determined to balance the budget—and they stood and cheered. Thus the gravest danger to the credit of the nation in the entire history of the republic passed.

* * *

A Simple Human Appeal

And the peroration? None at all. Just this simple human appeal:

"I pray to you on this side to be in good humor as far as you can. Try to serve your country, and, gentlemen, let us put through this legislation at the earliest date possible in the interest of our country."

And the effect?

Snell, the Republican leader, responded with an indorsement of Garner's stand and a pledge; and LaGuardia, who had led a revolt among Republicans, rose and made his pledge, and Doughton, of North Carolina, who had worked with LaGuardia, made his pledge; and in better, saner spirit than in days the House turned to the duty of saving the credit of the nation and the very fabric of society.

* * *

Rendered a Service To the Nation

In the national government Garner has given us a leadership that has been lamentably and tragically absent. He had properly awaited the time when that leadership would be mostly needed. In a few minutes he had changed the jeer of editorial writers, ignorant of the psychology of management, to cheers.

And in so doing he had rendered a service of immeasurable value to the nation.
